MERCHANTS ASK LOWER RATE FOR ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Committee Confers With Council, Suggesting Reduced Prices

RESOLUTION OFFERED

Marion Cites Cost of $900 Month to Citizens

A new schedule of light rates for residences and business houses was suggested to council, Wednesday evening, by a committee of merchants, appointed recently by W. E. Wallace, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Councilmen referred the proposed schedule to the committee headed by Frank Marion. It will be considered by the C. of C. committee, councilmen and power company officials in a joint meeting to be arranged soon.

Resolution Presented

Schedules listed were: residential; first 60 kw, 5 cents per kw; next 40, 4 cents; all over 100, 3 cents; commercial; first 100 kw, 5 cents; next 400, 3 cents; next 500, two and a half cents, and all over 1,000 kw, 2 cents.

The residential schedule suggested by the committee is the same as offered by the electric company for the last six years under a proposed 10-year contract. For the first four-year period under the

Balances in other funds were: library, $2,019.37; auto street repair, $3,777.65; gas tax, $4,388.91, and hospital fund, $2,001.76.

GIFTS FROM RICH AND POOR ARRIVE FOR DUKE, WALLY

MONT, France, May 20—(UP)—Wedding presents began to arrive at the Chateau De Cande today for the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

A room was set aside for them and the others that are to come. So far there was none from any member of the royal family. But gifts ranged from expensive silver to the home made offerings of peasants from the countryside.

Acceptances are being received for the wedding June 3. Included among the acceptors, it is understood, are the British Minister to Austria, Sir Walford Selby and Lady Selby and Hugh Lloyd Thomas, minister in the British embassy at Paris, and his wife.

The weather continued chilly and cloudy. Unable to golf because of the wet ground, the duke plays badminton daily, and under his tutelage Mrs. Warfield is becoming a good player.

SCOUT FINANCES TO BE DISCUSSED AT M. E. MEETING

All men interested in the future of Boy Scouting in Circleville and Pickaway county are urged to attend a meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Plans will be discussed for a financial drive.

The Central Ohio Area of Scouts is comprised of eight counties. Seven of these counties have for the last seven years carried their share of the operating cost of the council. Pickaway county has not shared in the expense, but has continued to receive service that was financed by the other counties. Robert H. Heistand, Scout executive, explained the situation has reached the point where a financial campaign must be held. The meeting will be ended before 9 p.m.

TWO LIGHTS FOR SEYFERT AVENUE ASKED IN REPORT

RAIL ESPIONAGE CITED

Roundup Follows Accord Of Anti-Communists

ABAROVSK, Siberia, May 20.—Forty-four alleged agents of the Japanese and German intelligence services, including one woman, have been sentenced to death as spies, it was announced today.

Such executions are carried out secretly, and it was understood the 44 were taken out and shot immediately after sentence had been passed by the military collegium of the supreme court of the Soviet Union.

The trial was held at a special session of the court at Svobodny in the far East. The prisoners were accused specifically of spying and sabotage on the strategic trans-Siberian railway.

Accord Aftermath

The roundup of the anti-communist accord signed between Germany and Japan last year, with subsequent suspicion on both sides and rumors of activities along the railway linking Moscow to her far eastern provinces.

The line connects with the Japanese-controlled Manchukuoan railway at Manchuli, on the Manchukuo-Siberian frontier. It runs close to the Manchukuo border from there on to Harbin and its terminal at Vladivostok, through the Amur valley. Frequent "incidents" on the line and the frontier have caused unrest to grow in recent months.

NEW SIT - ROWN CLOSSES DETROIT PLYMOUTH FIRM

DETROIT, May 20 — (UP) — A sit-down strike today closed down the assembly line of the Plymouth Motor Car company's plant here, making idle between 3,000 and 4,000 workers.

A Chrysler corporation spokesman who announced the strike said that its cause was not known to officials. Headquarters of the United Automobile Workers of America professed no knowledge of the labor trouble.

LANCASTER MAY BUILD ADDITION TO HIGH SCHOOL

LANCASTED, May 20 — The board of education and school officials have announced plans for a $12,000 addition to the high school building to provide for a new industrial arts department.

Plans for a three-story, 30 by 60 addition to the rear of the east wing of the old building have been prepared. The school has petitioned W. P. A. to include the addition as a Lancaster city project.

The addition was originally planned when the auditorium and gymnasium were erected, but was omitted at that time due to insufficient funds.

Lindy Secluded On Anniversary

Famous Flight of 10 Years Ago Celebrated in New York and Paris, But Aviator Remains in Home Near London

LONDON, May 20.—(UP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, who 10 years ago today started from New York on a flight to Paris few thought could end on land, spent his 10th anniversary a virtual recluse at his country home in Kent.

There were local celebrations in New York and Paris but Lindbergh himself, to whom it brought world fame and riches — and black tragedy — ignored it. An unobtrusive police guard round the home, and a big, toothy — German police dog which he imported from the United States, were sufficient evidences of Lindbergh's attitude, that he wants to be left alone.

British Given Lesson
He has shown traditionally reticent Britons how to be reticent, and the chief attention which he excites here is due to his strenuous efforts to avoid attention.

Lindbergh, his wife and their son Jon live in a rambling old home, Long Barn, at Weald, near Sevenoaks 20 miles from the center of the city. Lindbergh motors about the country in his little automobile, flies at times — last winter with his wife to India — and goes quietly to London where he is unnoticed.

He was at the opening of the civil aviation headquarters here a couple of weeks ago. A young aviator asked an official who was the first man to fly the Atlantic alone. The official pointed and said: "There he is behind you." No one of the general public had

BRITAIN'S RULER REVIEWS FLEETS AS GUNS SOUND

WITH THE KING'S FLEET PROCESSION, SPITHEAD, May 20—(UP)—The guns of the mightiest fleet ever assembled in the history of the world thundered in salute today as King George VI reviewed the might of Great Britain's sea power and the warships of 17 foreign nations at his coronation review.

The king and queen and little Princess Elizabeth, heir to the throne, stood on the bridge of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert as it steamed slowly down the line of 227 ships, covering an area of 24 square miles between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight, and aggregating 52 miles in length.

It was an impressive sight. The flags of all nations fluttered in the breeze. The shores were black with cheering thousands, groups of whom burst spontaneously in singing "Rule Britannia—Britannia Rule the Waves."

CHILLICOTHE WATER CO. WILLING TO SELL SYSTEM

CHILLICOTHE, May 20 — The utilities committee of council has been informed that the Chillicothe Water Co. is willing to negotiate with the city for the sale of its distribution system, but the company seeks a formal resolution from council authorizing the negotiations.

Council recently authorized the utilities committee to meet with company heads and determine whether the company was willing to sell, and if so, at what price.

Senior Class Play Thrills First-Night Audience

By HILDEBURN JONES, JR.
Again Wednesday evening, a fair sized crowd of Circleville "first-nighters" was thrilled by the Senior class presentation of "Wings of the Morning". The word "again" is used because it is the second hit this season produced with high school talent by Roy H. Bowen, dramatics coach at Circleville high school. Much credit is due Mr. Bowen for the play is a difficult one, not only as to acting ability, but as to staging.

"After a complete investigation of the matter, I have arrested Teets, and if it is found advisable the case may be investigated by the grand jury," Sheriff Radcliff said. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Teets, tenants on the farm operated by Babb.

Statements Obtained

Sheriff Radcliff, Deputy Weaver, Prosecutor George M. Gerhardt and Mr. Gerhardt's stenographer, Miss Hazel Lanman, were in Perry township Wednesday obtaining statements from all persons who were witnesses to the shooting Tuesday night.

Suits asking a total of $50,000 for pollution of the Scioto river were filed against the city of Columbus, Wednesday, in Franklin county common pleas court.

Karl L. Johnson, of Orient, asks $50,000 alleging his health became impaired by odors from the stream and his farm in this county was damaged. He said he was forced to move from the farm on March 1.

HOLLYWOOD, May 20 — (UP)—Noah W. Beery, Sr., once a Missouri peace officer and father of the actors, Wallace and Noah Beery, Jr., died last night after a heart attack. He was 83.

Physicians blamed the stroke on a hip injury Beery suffered several months ago and from which he never recovered.

Wallace, Noah, and a third son, Will, were at their father's bedside when he died.

Girl's Story Hoax, Aver Policemen

BOSTON, May 20—(UP)—An attractive blonde who gave several different names after being found at a back bay hotel told police today that her real name was Mary V. Davenport, 18, of Troy, N. Y. She said that she had been confined to the Hudson river state hospital at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BOSTON, May 20 — (UP) — Police sought to identify an attractive "mystery girl" today, who talked gaily of "hypnotizing pigs" on Boston common and drinking cocktails throughout the East.

The girl, a blonde, self-styled "problem child," at first described herself as Ruth Baumgardner, missing Ohio Wesleyan university co-ed, but said later that she was Catherine Gartner of St. Louis, and still later that she was Virginia Maher of New York.

Her stories became so conflicting last night that police ordered her removed to a detention cell to "get her thoughts in order." After checking with authorities in the three cities they discovered that she was not Miss Baumgardner nor Miss Gartner nor Miss Maher. The girl was found yesterday in

Quiet Campaign To Begin In Senate to Replace Previous Program

LOGAN'S BILL FAVORED

Efforts to Swing Uncertain Solon Under Way

WASHINGTON, May 20—(UP)—The administration began pushing another legislative program out in front of the battered supreme court bill today. It was a move that was expected to decide whether President Roosevelt's judiciary program will be compromised or killed.

Outmaneuvered at every stage of the battle over enlargement of the high tribunal, the administration strategists suddenly changed their tactics after Monday's jolting reverses. They started a quiet undercover campaign to salvage as much as possible of the original judiciary program.

Short of Majority

The new strategy, it was asserted, did not mean that hope of enacting the president's proposal for six new justices had been abandoned, but it was an admission by leaders in the court-campaign that they are definitely short of a senate majority.

The admission made unmistakable after the senate judiciary committee's unfavorable report and the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter—led the administration to a new line of attack. It involved:

1. A poll of uncommitted senators to determine whether the bill can be enacted or whether a compromise such as an eleven-justice court or the proposal of Sen. M. M. Logan, D., Ky., for a limit of one justice a year would be approved.

2. Permitting the judiciary battle to cool while congressional attention is centered on legislative matters.

CARDINAL'S TALK AGAINST HITLER ANGERS GERMANS

BERLIN, May 20.—(UP)—Germany has made official representations to the state department at Washington against a speech by Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, considered disparaging to Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, it was announced today.

UNION FILES COMPLAINT

Labor Board Requested to Act Against Republic Co.

PITTSBURGH, May 20 — (UP) — Twenty-seven thousand Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation employees voted today to determine who will represent them in collective bargaining, while the federal government investigated charges that a rival independent producer had sought to interfere with the election.

On the outcome of the balloting hinged John L. Lewis' chances of obtaining contracts for his steel workers' organizing committee from the largest independent companies, which together employ more than 150,000 workers.

National Labor Relations board officials, who supervised the voting, investigated a union complaint that the Republic Steel corporation had sent private police and "thugs" to Jones & Laughlin plants here and at Alliquippa, Pa., to "interfere with the government election."

The Republic corporation, one of the five independents which have been threatened with strikes unless they signed collective bargaining contracts with the steel workers' committee, admitted that it had sent "a few trained observers" to Alliquippa, but denied any plan to interfere.

22,633 Rural Residences To Be Furnished New Facilities

MUCH MONEY LOANED

Many Uses For Current Found In State

COLUMBUS, May 20 — New servants in 22,633 Ohio rural homes and tireless laborers on that many farms will be furnished by 6,032 miles of power lines built or being constructed in this state by cooperative associations who borrowed money through the rural electrification administration in 1935-36.

The money loaned in Ohio by this federal agency already totals $5,651,200 and an additional $834,984 has been reserved for loans during the present fiscal year if suitable electrification projects are submitted for approval. Farm owners in 20 counties have availed themselves of this opportunity to modernize their homes and to get a new source of power for farm machinery.

The most pretentious single project in the state was sponsored by the Pioneer Rural Electrification Cooperative, Inc. This line will serve 3,620 homes in Miami, Shelby, and Champaign counties. The loan made by the Washington organization was $1,199,000.

electricity on Ohio farms. A great deal of experimental work has been performed to determine the most economical ways of installing and operating equipment for rural use. Only a comparatively small part of the farms in the state now have electricity available although the building of power lines has increased tremendously in the last two years.

University specialists estimate there were 201,573 Ohio farms without electric service on July 31, 1936. That is almost 10 times as many farms as obtained electricity through companies financed by the rural electrification administration in the last two years, so there is still a great deal of work to be done before all Ohio farm owners will be able to start servants working by closing a switch.

FUNDS FOR TEST PITS TO CONCERN CITY OFFICIALS

Obtaining funds for preliminary work in connection with the construction of the disposal plant was referred to Solicitor Carl C. Leist and the service committee of council, Wednesday night.

Leist explained funds were needed to dig test pits at the plant site and for other expenses. He added council should not consider issuance of notes without taking into consideration the whole bond issue. He recommended the financing be given further discussion.

TAG REGISTRAR RECEIVES DATA

McLaughlin Discusses Farm Truck License Plates

James McLaughlin, deputy registrar of motor vehicles for Circleville has received several rulings concerning the law dealing with reduced rates for license plate fees for farm trucks.

One is in reply to a query concerning definition of farm trucks. Frank West, state registrar, informs McLaughlin that farm trucks may be used to assist neighbors in threshing provided no compensation is received from such use. If compensation is received farm truck license plates may not be used because the law prohibits the use of such plates for commercial purposes.

A farm truck is defined as "one used in the transportation from the farm of products of the farm, including livestock and its products, poultry and its products, horticultural and horticultural products, and transportation to the farm of supplies for the farm, including tile, fence and every other thing or commodity used in agricultural, floricultural, horticultural, livestock and poultry production, and livestock, poultry and other animals and/or things used for breeding, feeding or other purposes connected with the operation of the farm or farms. The term farm supplies shall include fuel used exclusively in the operation of a farm, including one or more houses located on and used in the operation of one or more farms and/or furniture and other things used in and around such homes.

A special license plate bearing the word "farm" instead of "truck" will be issued and bear numerals without letters and without the thousand pounds classification or designation.

Farm truck license plates are transferable only from one truck to another farm truck and are not transferable to any other type of truck. Regular truck license plates are not transferable to a farm truck.

CITY'S SCHOOLS PLAN 'COURTESY' WEEK PROGRAMS

Good Will Pageant, With 100 Eighth Graders Having Part, Arranged

PUBLIC TO BE INVITED

Music, Drills Prepared For Next Wednesday

A good will pageant, in which 100 eighth grade pupils will participate, will be open to the public next Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium, with Kenneth Lea, eighth grade and high school instructor, as chairman of a committee in charge. Other members of the committee are Miss Florence Brown, Miss Marjorie Priest, and Miss Margaret Rooney.

No admission will be charged. The pageant will be the climax of a "courtesy" week, observed internationally. Although many other schools are conducting their programs this week, Circleville's is next because of the senior class play, being repeated Friday evening after an excellent performance Wednesday.

An interesting evening is promised to parents and friends of the pupils who care to see the pageant. The girls' glee club, directed by Miss Priest, will furnish music; there will be dances and drills, and pantomimes, representing 11 different nations will be offered.

"World Good Will" day was started throughout the world in 1923, but this year is the first it has been observed in Circleville. Performances will be given for the grades and high school, too, during the week.

Bees' Value Appraised
AMHERST, Mass. (UP)—The honey bee is more valuable for its work in fertilization of plants than as a manufacturer of honey or wax, according to a study made at Massachusetts State College.

Ashville's Commercial Department Successful

Many Outstanding Pupils Enrolled During Year; Other Village Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Commercial classes in Ashville high school during the last two years have reached a new high for both enrollment and scholarship. Twenty typewriters were kept busy during the greater part of five periods each day and gross speeds up to seventy words per minute were made by several students.

At the present writing, Mary Elizabeth Millar with sixty-two net (gross minus 50 strokes for each error) words per minute represents a speed most consistently high, while Lucile Hedges with fifty-nine, Ruth Courtwright with fifty-eight, and Walter Gregg with fifty-four, are especially skilled in accurate typing. Walter having written for ten minutes without an error and Lucile making one mistake on the same type of test.

In the first year group of typewriting, Wilma Creager holds the highest speed and accuracy marks with fifty-two words per minute, but is being pressed to hold this lead by Jane Alexander, Helen Boyer, and Kathryn Bowers.

The Bookkeeping class, as good, if not the best in the history of A. H. S., contains several outstanding students, chiefly among which is Caroline Kuhlwein, who maintained an "E" average throughout the year and led the class in practice set work. All students are expected to finish practice material this week, thereby becoming the first class in the last few years to accomplish this feat. All work on the practice sets is done in class, no home work being allowed in this phase of the course.

Filing has been studied for the last two years as a laboratory project, supplementary to advanced stenography, and this course makes it possible for the commercial student to know something about this important part of office practice, along with their knowledge of typewriting and shorthand.

Outstanding students in stenography II are Jane Lindsey, Iva Jean Good, and Martha Martin, while in the first year class Clara belle Hoover and Wilma Creager hold the best records. Certificates of proficiency are awarded annually to leading book-keeping and typewriting students. Names of these winners have not yet been announced.

Economic geography and business arithmetic are other commercial subjects given this year at A. H. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heskett are to occupy the cottage near the grocery and meat market of J. S. Hoover and formerly occupied by the Hoover family. The Heskett intend to move here from Circleville in the very near future. Mr. Heskett is our new barber and says he has more work than he really expected because he is "new" here.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Beery are moving here from Canal Winchester into one of the Valentine dwellings on Station street. Mr. Beery who has charge of the Ford Agency here and says he is well pleased with the start he has made since taking charge of the agency.

Elected by Soldiers

It was Captain Stanley Stevenson then when he was high commander of Company F Ohio National Guards, Circleville. "He was placed in command of this company of soldiers by the boys of the company themselves, being permitted to choose their own commander," Sam Plummer said to us yesterday. "We all liked 'Captain Steve' as he was commonly called, and never asked any one of us to do anything he wouldn't do himself." Now this Stanley Stevenson is a civil engineer with Kansas City's home. He graduated from Ashville high school in 1911.

The incubator was kept in an upstairs room over the stove and where the chicks are now housed at two weeks of age. "Yes, I know they should be out and down on the ground and we'll get 'em there soon," he said. He said the lot is all purebred R. I. Reds the eggs being produced by the Sowell Beers flock. In the death of our old friend Jacob Eitel at Lockbourne, we are reminded of the favors bestowed on us by this kindly disposed man. ART ARNOLD'S COUSIN FROM UTAH Sees a "torture test"

"Believe me," he writes, "I KNOW Hudson and Terraplane are the No. 1 CARS. I saw what they did on the Salt Flats"

"I saw a LOW PRICED car beat the best any closed car had ever done before! That 1937 Terraplane... a stock car, mind you, picked at random by the American Automobile Association Contest Board officials... went 1,000 miles out there on those great Salt Flats, averaging 86.54 miles an hour! What a 'torture test' of endurance.

"Then a Hudson... 2104 miles in 24 hours! Out here, we've seen a lot of stock cars come to the Salt Flats and try for that 24-hour record... the prize of them all. But none ever touched what we saw that 1937 Hudson do! 87.67 miles an hour... for a full day and night! 32 official records for Hudson... on top of 8 for Terraplane!

"Then those California records! Terraplane beat every other leading low priced car... and Hudson beat every other Eight... in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run. And then... the Wrightwood Canyon climb! Up 9 wicked, twisting miles in 8 minutes, 20 seconds for Terraplane; 8 minutes, 0.4 seconds for an official Hudson record.

"You can bet it's Hudson for me! Those people know how to build automobiles. Art. More power. More size and room. More economy and safety and endurance than any other cars anywhere near them in price, proved in official tests. I've got mine... and once you drive one, you'll say it's your No. 1 CAR, too! See if you don't!"

No. 1 Cars of the Low and Moderate Price Fields—
No. 1 Wheelbases... 117 inches in Terraplane; 122 and 129 inches in Hudson.
No. 1 Horsepower... 96 and 101 in Terraplane; 101, 118 and 122 in Hudson. Double carburetor in Super Terraplane and all Hudson Sixes and Eights.
No. 1 Roominess... 55 full inches of front seat comfort for three.
No. 1 Driving Ease... with exclusive Selective Automatic Shift (as optional extra).

COUNTY FILE 26 MORE INCOME TAXES IN 1936

Figures Disclosed By U. S. Department Reveal National Increase

ROSS, SCIOTO HIGHER

State of Ohio Has 36,050 More Than Last Year

Cincinnati residents filed 16 more income tax returns for the 1936 period than they did in 1935, internal revenue figures, disclosed today, reveal.

In 1935, 186 persons filed returns, while for 1936 the figure was 202. Ashville showed an increase, too, with 30 reported, five more than in 1935. The county's total was 265 compared to 239.

More Chillicotheans paid this year than last with 1,079 listed as compared with 892 for 1935.

Scioto county showed 1,451 compared with 1,221.

For the entire state, the number of income tax returns filed increased from 214,493 in 1935 to 250,543 in 1936. The number of tax returns in the United States jumped from 4,201,859 in 1935 to 4,666,504 in 1936.

Income taxes for 1936 were listed in blanks submitted to the government early in 1937.

INDIANS' LODGE TO BE RESTORED

WASHINGTON (UP)—Restoration of a prehistoric Indian ceremonial council at Ocmulgee National Monument project, near Macon, Ga., is expected to begin soon, the National Park Service announces.

The council chamber is one of the most interesting archeological finds in the country. It is a circular, earthen chamber, much like the kiva of the Southwest. The entire clay floor area is intact, and a portion of the circular wall is standing.

There is a large eagle effigy altar or dais on which three seats are fashioned, and 47 other council seats line the wall and face a baked clay fire pit in the center. An inner structure of four wooden central pillars supporting the roof of rafters, matting and clay, rebuilt from evidences revealed by excavations, later will cover all signs of modern construction.

When structural restoration is completed, the original soil will be placed over the entire unit to recreate its primitive appearance. The lodge then will resemble a great earthen beehive.

Scientific exploration has been under way at Ocmulgee River area since 1933. Discoveries seem to link the cultures of the Southeast with those of the prehistoric Southwest. In addition to the council chamber, there are a number of Indian mounds, pits, plateaus, and adjoining the council

In Alienation Suit

TESTIFYING as defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed against her in Detroit court by Mrs. Charles H. Cullinan, of Washington, D. C., Laura Strittmatter, a clerk in the Home Owners Loan corporation's Detroit office, said that Cullinan had represented himself as divorced when she—Miss Strittmatter—married him in June, 1935. She had the marriage annulled a year later. Mrs. Cullinan charges that Miss Strittmatter "stole" her husband's love when he was transferred to Detroit from Washington for a short time in 1935 as junior auditor of the H.O.L.C. office.

NEW APPROACH MAY DECREASE SINUS SURGERY

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A decrease in the use of surgery in treating sinus disorders is expected as a result of a 20-month research by Washington University's school of medicine in which it was shown that many cases of sinus infections are due to allergic susceptibility of various substances.

According to Dr. Lee W. Dean, head of the medical school, a method has been found to determine accurately whether a particular case of sinus trouble is due to germ infection or to allergy without infection. This research showed, he stated, that all allergic sinus cases can be aided without resorting to surgery.

Allergy—a condition of unusual susceptibility to a substance which the majority of people find harmless—causes sinus disease by producing stagnation of the nasal sinus discharges which then become a good breeding ground for microbes.

In place of surgery, Dr. Dean said, for better results can be achieved by allergic treatment, plus the use of vaccine proper diet and normalization of the nasal passages. The best results can be obtained by first controlling the allergic condition and then attacking the infection of the sinuses in a conservative way, he said.

chamber, there is an ancient corn field, possibly 1,000 years old, with furrows still intact.

It was in this region that the Greek Indians formed their confederacy which defeated the Apalachee Indians, allies of Spain, and so helped determine that this part of the United States should be English rather than Spanish.

RUSH ON TO BUY EDWARD CURIOS

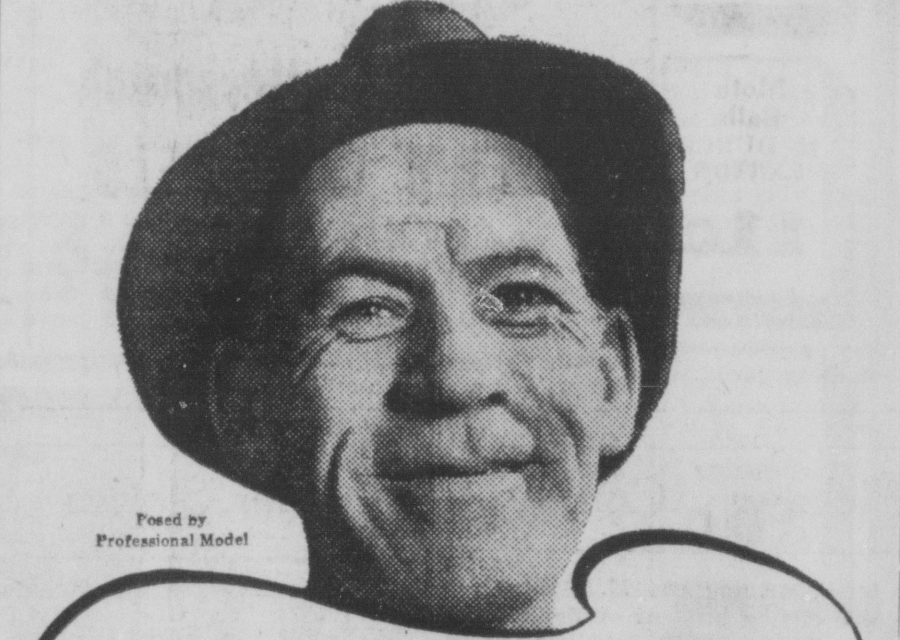

LONDON (UP)—An unexpected rush by collectors and curio-hunters all over the world for mementoes of the reign of Edward VIII promises to mitigate considerably the losses of British traders who for months have been producing King Edward souvenirs.

Makers of medals, flags, handkerchiefs and pottery, who have already turned out large quantities of goods bearing the ex-King's portrait, feared, when news of the impending abdication reached them, that the whole of their stock would be left on their hands. From all parts of the country, however, they have received reports of an astonishing demand for all kinds of souvenirs definitely linked with Edward.

It is not expected that the demands of collectors in this country will absorb more than a small part of the millions of pieces now on their makers' hands, but they have already relieved a difficult situation. Much Coronation ware will be exported, it is expected, to foreign countries where the ex-King is known.

Some of the textile goods, such as handkerchiefs and printed cloth, will find a ready market among native populations in Africa, who have already bought large quantities of cloth bearing Edward's portrait.

NIGHT and DAY

you're safe on CONCRETE

At night you appreciate concrete all the more because its light gray surface helps you see down the road. Light is spread without "glossy" reflection. Pavement edges are clearly defined.

Concrete meets the ideal for a pavement as defined by the International Illumination Congress of 1928. This is important to you because surveys show that the rate of death per accident is 43 per cent higher during darkness.

Concrete, smooth but non-skid, insures a quick, certain stop even in the rain. Blow-outs, spring breakage, steering gear failures, accidents of all kinds are less apt to happen on concrete.

Yet concrete is not only safe—it is more comfortable—it saves in driving costs—it costs less for upkeep—and cost of construction is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

HELIUM
OUT of the twisted mass of steel on the Lakehurst field comes a myriad of rumors. One of these stories that is going the rounds concerns the restriction of the sale of helium by the United States Government to foreign powers. It is the opinion of some people, not any too well versed in what they are attempting to say, that if the Government had not refused to sell helium to Germany the accident would not have happened.

This thought should be at once dismissed as untruthful. As a matter of fact, in 1929 President Hoover and Dr. Eckener, commander of the Graf, discussed the relative merits of helium and hydrogen. The German official was informed that the United States would sell helium for German airships, but according to authentic sources, Dr. Eckener did not take kindly to the proposal. He seemed to think that it was not worth while substituting the lower-priced hydrogen for the more expensive helium. He expressed the belief that German dirigibles were so carefully made and handled that it was not necessary to make the change. It is true that two months later the Helium Control Board rejected an application for export of the gas because the applicant failed to specify the destination, purpose or use as required by law. The Government has a perfect right to reject such offers. It will sell helium for peace purposes and not for military craft. It has now been developed that neither the German Government nor any of its representatives ever applied for helium. Thus, the United States can in no measure be held responsible for anything that happened at Lakehurst.

Let us not voice empty conjectures about the Government "hogging" the supply of helium. There has been no evidence to support it. Loose talk of this kind does not make for cordial relations. Those people who have so little to do in life as to ignorantly and stupidly condemn their Government for something that was not done should refrain from idle gossip and senseless denunciation.

PIE FOR BREAKFAST
JUDGE FRED FOOTE, 88 years old and pie-hungry, has filed a protest in his native town of Middlebury, Vermont, at the disappearance of pie from the breakfast menu. His complaint is not without justification. If you eliminate pie from a New England breakfast, you take away the charm and flavor from that meal. However, he is deprived of an opportunity of existing on a pie-diet in order to show the remainder of a scoffing world that pie is not necessarily a desert item for dinner and supper, and not the mainstay of truck drivers and sundry transients in the many lunchwagons that dot our historic country.
Judge Foote is not alone in the battle to restore the breakfast pie. Judge L. C. Russell, who is an authority on all that concerns New England, believes that the rising generation needs two kinds of pie to give them pep in their morning work, and Charles Dana, who admits to have sampled 108 different kinds of pie, believes that if there is a slackening in mental activity among the youth of today, the remedy may well be found in a return to the old-fashioned menu of pie and plenty of it for the first meal of the day.

World At A Glance

This is pure gossip.
When President Roosevelt got back to Washington, after his fishing trip to the Gulf of Mexico he called certain Democratic leaders into conference with him at the White House.
They were:
Vice President John N. Garner; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader in the upper congressional chamber; Speaker John H. Bankhead of the house of representatives, and Representative Sam Rayburn, Democratic leader in the lower house of congress.
A REBELLION?
These four are rumored to have warned the White House tenant: "A rebellion is sizzling against you on Capitol Hill."
Vice President Garner is represented as the most distinctly anti-administrative. Robinson is spoken of as one who is particularly pro-administration but who doesn't like the plan.
Bankhead doesn't like the plan, either.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
ROBERT JACKSON IS CORPORATION LAWYER WHO BECAME LIBERAL

WASHINGTON — There are many paradoxes in the New Deal, but none more extraordinary than Robert Houghwout Jackson.
Neither a college man nor a professor, he has fathered more of the Administration's innovations than the famed Brain Trusters. He is one of the most advanced economic and social thinkers in Washington, but has somehow escaped the fire and fury of the opposition while much less Leftist figures have been hounded and blasted. A former corporation lawyer and utility director, as a government attorney he has been one of the most aggressive and effective foes of these interests in the country.
And finally Jackson, devoid of political pull or power, has risen in three years through sheer brilliance of ability in an atmosphere surcharged with politics. From a modest private practice in Jamestown, N. Y., he rose to senior Assistant Attorney General, third in rank in the Justice Department.
That is a long way to go from scratch in so short a time. But keep your eye on this personable young man. In the next three years he will go much further. Governor of New York, Cabinet member, Justice of the Supreme Court—anyone of them is a good bet.

KNOW HE WAS GOOD
The Capital has just begun to realize how good a man Jackson is. President Roosevelt and Secretary Henry Morgenthau have known it for a long time.
As Governor of New York Roosevelt appointed Jackson to a special commission to study the State's courts. Another member of the group was Herman O. Oliphant, of Johns-Hopkins University, now general counsel of the Treasury. The two men turned in a report that made legal history.
When Morgenthau assumed the Treasury portfolio in 1934, one of the first things he did was to bring Jackson to Washington and make him general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau. And one of the first things that Jackson did was to pick up the Mellon tax evasion suit where a Pittsburgh grand jury had dropped it.
Some months previous the jury had refused to indict the one-time Secretary of the Treasury and Ambassador to Great Britain on criminal charges. Jackson re-opened the case in a $3,000,000 tax recovery and penalty suit, and fought it through various court actions to a show-down in the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals, which has been deliberating the matter for more than a year.

With this fusillade as a starter, Jackson swung into high gear as a New Deal crusader.

Observing Italy's armed might in operation in Spain, Ethiopians are beginning to wonder why they permitted themselves to be whipped.

World At A Glance

Rayburn likes it well enough, but is scared.
PRESIDENT'S RESPONSE?
All told, these advisers are said to have counselled:
"Go slowly."
The presidential answer, as said to have been (again I record only rumor), was:
"Gentlemen, after all, I'm president."
LOSING CONTROL?
Conclusion?
The president's rulership of the house of representatives is unquestionable.
In the senate it is doubtful.
If he cannot control the senate he cannot control congress. He will be much in the same position that Woodrow Wilson was on the World court proposition.
WHO ARE ADVISERS?
It is interesting to wonder who are the president's advisers in the present situation.
Originally his suggestions came from early New Dealers. like

CHAPTER 55
"THIS WILL be the last job you shall do for me, Charles," smiled the Colonel. "You'll have the paper as soon as I get my $100,000, and thereafter you can be an upright, honest, God-fearing solicitor, who can hold up his head in the law courts and look judges in the face. And this time it's quite a pleasant job. You'll be marrying the girl you want to marry—and who wants to marry you."
"All right, you needn't rub it in," interrupted Charles. "You know I've really no choice in the matter."
"Then you agree?"
Charles nodded.
"Congratulations!" said Lutman. "I feel sure you will be very happy. I shall give you a very handsome wedding present. And now, just to celebrate the occasion, if there is anything in that safe of yours—a little whiskey, perhaps..."
"I counted on your wanting that," Lutman said, Charles with a smile, "so I brought a fresh bottle in with me."
He rose, went to the safe, and opened the door. A few minutes later he turned, placed two glasses on the desk, tipped some whiskey into each and added some soda.
Lutman stood up and raised his glass.
"To you and Jacqueline," Charles said, and drained his glass. "I hope you'll be very happy. Marriage, my good Charles, is a most momentous—a most momentous—step..."
He staggered, reeled backward, and clutched at a chair for support. He glanced across at Charles who stood faintly smiling beside the desk, and his face was suddenly livid with fury.
"Damn you!" he gasped. "Curse you for a dirty double-crossing swine..."
He swayed, seemed to crumple up, and sank in a heap on the floor.
Instantly the lawyer stepped forward, thrust a hand into the breast pocket of Lutman's coat, and pulled out the contents. There was a thick folded document and a leather wallet. Charles, glancing at the document, saw that it was the deed that Jacqueline had signed. He tore it into fragments and tossed them into the wastepaper basket. Then, opening the wallet, he examined the contents carefully, selected a disheveled paper, read the faded writing, and then suddenly ripped the sheet to pieces. There was a small memorandum book, too, which, after a hasty glance inside, he slipped into his pocket. Then, replacing the wallet in the unconscious man's pocket, he stooped, pulled aside the threadbare strip of carpet, and laid bare a trap door in the floor. This he opened, and kneeling, peered down through the opening.
"Allwright!" he called.
"O. K., mister!" came a hoarse voice; and a moment later the head and shoulders of Captain Allwright emerged from the trap door. "Well and truly out, Allwright!" smiled Charles, with a wave toward Lutman's motionless figure. "All ready?"
"All ready, mister. Shove him along," replied Allwright, and disappeared.
Charles seized Lutman's shoulder, dragged him to the trap door, thrust his legs through the opening, and slowly lowered him into Captain Allwright's arms.
"O. K.," came Allwright's voice, and Charles closed the trap door, straightened himself, and was turning toward the desk when he saw the door of the outer office open. Jacqueline stood in the doorway.
"Is everything all right, Charles?"
"Absolutely. Why?"
"I thought I heard voices."
"I've been talking to Lutman."
"Where is he?"
Charles smiled.
"On his way to Antwerp, with Captain Allwright."
He thrust his hands into his pockets and began to pace the room, smiling.
"Charles, don't strut!"
"Am I strutting?"
"Like a prize rooster."
"Well, I feel like strutting," said Charles. "You see, Jacqueline, what you said to me tonight—upstairs. Well, I'm right up again—for good and all, and not even Lutman can get me down again. Come and look." He beckoned to her and she went to him. "See those scraps of paper, Jacqueline?" he said, pointing to the wastepaper basket.
She nodded.
"Well, that's it—the paper—the one Lutman has been holding over my head to make me do his dirty jobs."
"Charles! He gave it to you?"
"No; I took it—from his wallet—when he was out."
"Out?"
"Doped," exclaimed Charles. "I doped his whiskey—neurocaine. Got it from one of my less respectable clients and stored it behind Chitty on Contracts. He went down like a log, and then I did a little pilfering and handed him down to Allwright."
"Down?" repeated Jacqueline.
Charles stepped forward and pulled up the trap door.
"Down there," he said. "Have a look. That's the river. It runs under this house. Allwright came along in a boat and took him aboard. I went out this evening and fixed it with him. He's a good chap. Allwright—not too particular what cargo he carries. Luckily his boat was sailing tonight. Shouldn't you go back to bed? You're shivering. Have some whiskey?"
She shook her head.
"I'm off to bed again, Charles," she said, "but I just want to say I'm glad—terribly glad!"
At the door she glanced back.
"What are you going to do, Charles—more work?"
"Not tonight."
"Sleep?"
"No; I don't think I could sleep."
"What, then?"
"Oh, just strut!" he grinned.
Charles, bearing a cup of steaming tea in his hand, mounted the spiral staircase and hammered noisily on Jacqueline's door.
"Jacqueline!"
"Hello!"
"Are you awake?"
"Yes—now!"
"Are you fit to be seen?"
"No!"
"Well, you'll find a dressing gown lying about somewhere. Stick it on and open the door."
A few moments of silence.
Then:
"O. K., Charles. Come in!"
Charles went in, found Jacqueline swathed in a voluminous dressing gown, seated on the edge

Tanic Acid Is Best Treatment for Burns
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MOST ACCIDENTS which require first aid, as we said yesterday, occur in the home, and even these by all odds burns are the most frequent. It is not only the cook or housewife who is subject to these, but also children.
In fact, scalds of a serious kind are more frequent than burns. The effect on the skin is just the same with a scald or burn.
Of a little over 200 domestic accidents which involved scalds or burns, the causes were as follows: Hot water, 87; fire, 35; hot coffee, 19; freerackers, 4; hot soup, 4; lye, 3; hot lard, 3; stove, 6; hot milk, 2; hot gravy, 2; cleaning fluid, 2; gunpowder, 2.
In the treatment of burns it is well to remember that practically all of them are serious. It is true that the extent rather than the depth of a burn is the measure of its seriousness. Burns may be fatal for one of three reasons: (1) the loss of the function of the skin—of excretion, perspiration and regulating the temperature of the body; (2) change in the blood, and (3) toxemia from the absorption of destroyed tissue.
I was sent once, a good many years ago, to the scene of a railway accident in which one of the cars had caught fire and a number of people were severely burned. There was a trained nurse on board who was the only passenger who kept her head, and she ordered olive oil from the dining car to be used as a dressing for burns.
Good Treatment Then
That was good treatment in those days, but she might better, in the light of our present knowledge, have ordered tea that had been boiled to be used, poured over the burn and covered with a sterile dressing. If nothing else is available, grease or fat or oil gives a considerable amount of comfort.
The tannic acid treatment for burns, which is very widely used today, was suggested first by Edward C. Davidson of Detroit in 1925. He found that tannic acid forms a more or less stable compound with the protein constituents of the body fluids and cells. When a dilute solution of tannic acid is applied to a burn surface, it exerts its astringent effect upon the most superficial tissues, coagulating them and thereby preventing further penetration into the deeper structures. The use of tannic acid converts a burn in a short time into what is practically a sterile wound.
Burned patients, under tannic acid, suffer less from toxemia and are almost immediately relieved of pain.
Tannic acid is a brownish powder, readily soluble in water, and often is sprayed on the burn in the form of an atomizer.
As tannic acid is present in tea leaves, this is the reason I say a boiled solution of tea is the best dressing that is available for domestic purposes until the doctor arrives.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Alternate Snaps
Ball and socket snappers hold better if, instead of putting all balls on one side of the opening and sockets on the other, you alternate a ball and a socket on each side of the opening.

Can-Rubber Handles
Small children usually have several toys with pull-strings. Remove the large bead from the end of the string on each toy and replace it with a can rubber. This rubber makes an excellent handle for the youngsters to hold on to, and also makes the toys much safer. There is no longer the danger of them swallowing the beads, should they loosen them from the strings—nor turning their ankles on them when the toys are left in the middle of the room.

Liberties Allowed
The home decorator may take liberties with the dining room. When this room does not open directly from the living room, original and daring combinations may be used. Because it is a room in which a comparatively short time is spent, an unusual effect is not so likely to become tiresome. When a dining room opens from another room with double doors, it should follow the same style and color scheme, if a harmonious effect is desired.

The person who wishes to build a new house should study the details of the insured mortgage system of the Federal Housing administration.

ENGINEER SEES ROCKET MOTOR MEETING TEST

Inventor Expects 10-pound Machine Will Develop 500 Horsepower

TINKERING MANY YEARS

Failure Would Not Dismay Man Who Began at O.S.U.

CLEVELAND, May 20 (UP)—Lester D. Woodford, who as a college sophomore planned a trip to the moon, still is tinkering with rockets, but age has cooled his ambition.

He'd be contented now, he said, if he could stand on the Pacific coast and drop a rocket in Asia, or, if need arose, send a stratosphere-speedster zooming from New York to Paris.

Woodford, a 26-year-old industrial engineer, one year out of college, experiments with rockets as a hobby. He is a member of the American Society of Rocket Engineers, not to be confused with the Cleveland Rocket Society, which announced recently that its model space-ship would be exhibited soon in Paris.

"I've looked over their work," Woodford said briefly. "I wasn't satisfied with it."

Studied at Ohio State

Woodford has been experimenting with rockets for eight years. He began during his sophomore year in engineering at Ohio State University. That was when the idea of a trip to the moon captured his fancy.

"I gave that up," he said. "It wasn't practical."

What he is interested in now is the commercial and military use of rockets.

He believes he has worked out a formula which will perfect the rocket motor. Rockets (the kind people may ride in some day, not the pyrotechnic kind seen on the Fourth of July) are propelled by the force produced by the explosion of vaporized fuel.

The rocket motor is a small hollow ball, with a hole in one side, from which an exhaust pipe flares. It's the structure of the exhaust pipe, Woodford says, that largely determines the motor's success.

In his motor, explosion of butane within the ball pushes the rocket forward. The exhaust must be so designed that it flares out from the motor in an exact ratio (and there's the secret) to the expansion of the gases released within the motor.

It's that puzzling exhaust pipe ratio that Woodford thinks he's found.

To Test Motor Soon

His motor, he said, will be tested soon. "Within from four to six weeks."

"I'll take it to some isolated spot," he explained, "to prevent accident."

The motor will be strapped down inside a small concrete structure. It will be operated by remote control while it is being tested, so that if, perchance the inventor's calculations are wrong, he'll be left alive to amend them.

Woodford's motor, weighing only 10 pounds, is expected to develop up to 500 horsepower. He said a

May-December Woes Are Told

Tax Work Nightmare To Solons

Leaders In Dark As To Proposals Feared Approaching

This is the last of three articles by Charles P. Stewart on the tax situation as seen from Washington.

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 20—Congress is in a truculent frame of mind; ready to squabble over almost anything, and the big problem yet to be solved is taxation. It is characteristic of the president to make an executive approach a step at a time, and leaders in both houses appear to be in the dark.

They will not even admit that a tax bill will be presented, although they know that one must be brought out. Everybody with a soft lead pencil has taken a shot at the issue. The Brookings institution recently issued a report showing a heavy increase in housing requirements for federal agencies. In 1933 offices and quarters for this purpose in the national capital occupied 12 1/2 million square feet. In 1935 the space had increased to almost 16 million (15,844,957 as against 12,552,138 in 1933). Outside of Washington the increase jumped over the named period, from 56,239,294 square feet to 102,409,190. Between December 1934, and September, 1936, the civil personnel increased more than 1,000 each month except two. The personnel outside of the capital is 85 percent of the total.

It is beyond credulity to expect a cut in these figures large enough to make a dent in expenditures. The unbalanced budget, which is causing some uneasiness, would most certainly become an unbalanced nation if five or six millions of these folk were handed blue slips on pay day.

Yet another suggestion includes radio instruments as a possible source. In England they bear a part of the excise burden and the tax appears to be agreeable, or at least tolerated without too much squealing. It was some years after the automobile became common before it was shot at, by way of a fuel tax, and now see what it pays.

But all these things are taxes, regardless of the names they may be called by. None of them is painless.

As an evidence of what happens when a government employee is nudged out of his job take the 900 who are out in the AAA, because the job for which they were hired fulfilling contracts between farmers on crop control and the government), is ended. The influence which got them the places in the first instance is now engaged in finding nooks for them in some other federal setup. A good many will be found and that's just as certain as taxes.

LOVE MISSIVE LOST IN BATTLE 19 YEARS LATE

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (UP)—Nineteen years ago, just before he went into battle in Belleau Wood, Corp. Joseph Rendinell of the 6th Marines mailed a letter to his sweetheart, Mae Delaney. Miss Delaney, who has been Mrs. Rendinell for 18 years, has just received the letter. It had been lost when the censor, called into the line, had stuffed a packet of letters into his bed roll. The censor, Lieut. Edward A. Kennedy, was wounded in battle, and the letters were lost. Three years ago they were found in the roll of bedding at Brooklyn Navy Yard and forwarded to Kennedy, who lives in Cloquet, Minn. Again they were lost. But recently Kennedy found them and sent them back to the writers.

Fort Peck Dam on Missouri River, Costing Uncle Sam $106,000,000, Nearly Ready to Begin Operating

Looking across the top of Fort Peck dam with train in distance.

Fifteen million carloads of materials will have passed by this depot by the time Fort Peck dam is finished.

Col. Thomas B. Larkin, chief U. S. army engineer in charge of the building of Fort Peck dam.

FORT PECK, Mont.—Closing down like a faucet on the mighty Missouri, Uncle Sam's $106,000,000 Fort Peck dam will start operating as a barrier across the stream in July. It is approximately 2,000 miles from where the Missouri empties into the Mississippi above St. Louis.

Four mile-long diversion tunnels will take care of the flow of the stream while dredges fill the gap in the dam through which the water has been flowing since the start of the public works project in October, 1933.

By fall, when the spillway will be completed, huge gates of the diversion tunnels will close down and the five-year filling-up process of the 185-mile long lake behind the dam will begin.

Following its peak in 1936 when more than 7,000 workers were on the job, employment has been steadily decreasing. Employment will continue to drop sharply from now until 1939 when the dam will be entirely completed.

Forming an almost insignificant dot on the badlands of northeastern Montana, Fort Peck dam is five times larger than any other hydraulic earth-fill dam in the world. Its actual dimensions are two miles long, half mile wide and 242 feet high.

Effects of the dam will be felt as far away as the lower reaches of the Mississippi for it will impound water which ordinarily would run off during the spring floods. A nine-foot channel for navigation, already in operation between St. Louis and Kansas City, will be extended to Sioux City, Ia.

The lake to be formed by the dam will be large enough with its 1,600 miles of shore line to accommodate huge squadrons of boats and airplanes.

Some have suggested that Fort Peck dam, originally an Indian trading post, will become one of the country's chief defense bases. As a gesture in memory of the old river steamboat days, a boat race from St. Louis to Fort Benton will be run off just before the closing in of Fort Peck dam. Entries from many towns along the Missouri river are expected. The building of the dam has attracted more than 25,000 people to the vicinity where there are some 25 mushroom villages and a city planned and constructed by the government.

PUBLIC WARNED 'DRY ICE' CAN BE DANGEROUS

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Following the ice wagon may not be dangerous to children, but their handling of "dry ice" presents a new physical hazard.

"Don't play with 'dry ice,'" the Orleans Parish Medical Society warned. And the message was for adults as well as children, for indiscriminate handling of the material may seriously attack and destroy tissues.

"Children all over the United States have made it a practice to follow the ice wagon to get a small amount of ice to eat," the society said.

"With advent of 'dry ice' used by vendors of many types of frozen dainties sold on the streets, children now beg for the surplus 'ice' which vendors usually throw away as their stock become low.

"It seems that this new refrigerant fascinates the youngsters. They have found out that if they hold a small amount of it in their mouths and breathe through their noses, a condensation of the cold resembles breath on a frosty morning.

"On interviewing some of our local adolescents, we learn that this is called 'blowing off steam.' Because 'dry ice' is a tissue destroyer, it is now used in removing blemishes, the doctors pointed out. Placing it in the mouth has resulted in many cases of ulcers and other injury. The society cited a case from New York in which a child had to be treated for two weeks in a hospital from swallowing a piece the size of a grape.

GRAVE DIGGER LOSES TEMPER, UPSETS STONES

GRAVESEND, England (UP)—This is a story all about graves, even including the name of the city where the incidents took place.

Joseph Waghorn, a Gravesend Corporation grave digger, argued with his foreman over how deep a grave should be dug. Unable to convince the foreman about the proper depth, Waghorn gave an hour's notice.

An hour later he returned to the cemetery with a large hammer and engaged in a smashing party. He broke three moving machines 12 gravestone blocks and a large number of flower pots. As he was leaving the graveyard he hurled a flower pot at the foreman, William Lear, who successfully dodged.

Waghorn's damage was placed at $90 and he was sentenced to a month in prison. Charges of assaulting Lear were dismissed.

Questions and Answers

What is meant by Espagnole Sauce? What is its use, and how is it made?

Espagnole Sauce is a rich brown sauce, one of the most important basic sauces, and is sometimes called 'veloute' or 'velvety' sauce. This is used as a gravy or thick sauce, being made with these ingredients:

- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 1 C. brown stock
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Melt butter, brown the flour in the butter, add stock slowly. Boil for 3 minutes and strain. Add flavorings of onion, minced vegetables, bay leaf, Worcestershire sauce or parsley to suit the purpose of the sauce. Casserole meat dishes, roasts, and other meat dishes are improved in flavor by the addition of the sauce as an accompaniment.

Can you tell me how many eggs will be needed to bread veal for serving one hundred and fifty people?

If you allow one-quarter pound veal for each serving, you will need approximately forty pounds of meat to serve 150 people. Sixteen eggs will be needed for dipping the veal and 2 cups of milk to thin the egg mixture. Four quarts of bread crumbs, and one cup of salt completes the quantities needed to serve this simple dish to 150 people.

Please give me a recipe for Hot Fudge Sauce for cake and ice cream.

With spring increasing our interest in ice cream, we offer this sauce to "pep up" the flavors commonly served.

- Hot Fudge Sauce
- 1 1/2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
- 1 C. milk
- 1 C. sugar
- 2 Tbsp. light corn syrup
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Bring to a boil and cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar, dash of salt, and syrup, and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of sauce forms a jellied mass in cold water (220 degrees). Add vanilla. Serve hot on ice cream or other desserts, or serve cold. Makes 1 1/2 C. sauce.

These terms on menus cause confusion. Can you tell me what they mean? "Duchesse potatoes," "petite-fours," "potage," "piquante" and others, but as a start I would appreciate knowing these.

Duchesse potatoes are mashed potatoes to which egg yolks and butter have been added. The potatoes are usually put through a pastry tube to give a decorative touch.

Petite-fours—small cakes usually elaborately frosted.

Potage—the French word for soup.

Piquante—usually refers to a tart sauce containing vinegar or lemon juice.

HAWAII AND U. S. TRADE TEACHERS

island school teachers this year are taking part in a "teacher exchange" program with co-operation of mainland schools, one of the most unusual developments in recent instructor training. Oren E. Long, superintendent of public instruction in the territory, recently reported success of the new undertaking to Joseph E. Poindexter, territorial governor.

"It is the policy of our school system in Hawaii to not only permit but to encourage our teachers to exchange positions with instructors in mainland America," Long said. "Under this plan new ideas are absorbed, new enthusiasm is obtained and a better understanding of Hawaii is given to school systems throughout the nation.

"These exchanges are arranged between administrations and not by the teachers themselves. After the arrangements are made, the teacher is given the privilege of accepting or refusing an exchange. Much attention is given to the selection of Hawaii's representatives and the plan has met with splendid approval by other systems employing our teachers. "Mainland teachers brought here receive the same salary as island teachers and the reverse is true for our exchange. No exchange position carries for more than one year."

During the current school year island teachers are employed in Minneapolis, Omaha, Phoenix, Oakland, Little Falls, N. J.; Stockton, Cal.; Santa Ana, Cal.; Vancouver, B. C.; Waynesboro, Pa.; Moline, Ill.; Dearborn, Mich.; Portland, Ore.; Bellingham,

BENCH CONTEST FOR DOGS TO HAVE PLACE IN PUMPKIN SHOW IN OCTOBER

BIRD CLUB AIRS PLAN FOR MAJOR EVENT OF FALL

Entrance Fee For Higher Class Animals To Be Suggested at $1

Downtown Building Sought For Competition

Byron Eby, president of the Pickaway County Bird Dog club, has completed plans for a dog show at the Pumpkin Show. He will submit his proposition to the show society at its next meeting.

Directors of the society recently decided to add a dog show to the celebration and referred arrangements to the club.

Mr. Eby said the tentative plans were to charge a $1 entrance fee for registered dogs or dogs eligible to register. No entrance fee would be charged for ordinary dogs. He will suggest also that a 10-cent admission price be charged, the funds to be used by the society for expenses.

A regular bench show will be held with judges to be brought here from other cities. Prizes will be awarded, and funds obtained by the club will be used for purchasing pheasants for field trials, or game.

The club hopes to obtain a downtown building for the show so the barking will not disturb residents. In the event a building is not obtained, the show will be held in a tent in the downtown district.

GOLFERS BEATEN IN LEAGUE MEET WITH TWO FOES

Circleville high school golfers made their poorest showing of the year, Wednesday, when they finished third in the Central Buckeye league tournament over the Arlington course.

The Tiger quartet hit the ball more than 400 times. Grandview won the meet with a 347 total, while Bexley was second.

Circleville was the only other competitor. Next Monday, the Red and Black will meet Grandview on the Pickaway Country Club course.

Ford Frick Threatens Giant-Cardinal Teams

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—Fines and suspensions for the players who engaged in the Giant-Cardinal ninth inning riot at Sportsman's park, St. Louis—the stormiest baseball brawl in years—were scheduled for today by Ford Frick, National league president.

"I won't take any action until I receive the complete reports of the umpires who handled the game," said Frick. "They have been air-mailed to me and I expect them by noon. I talked to Umpires Barr and Stark and Managers Frisch and Terry on the long distance phone last night and it's hard to find out just exactly what happened because it came so suddenly and so many players were involved."

Out of the battle, in which almost every player of both teams was swinging, these facts stood out:—

1) Carl Hubbell won his 22nd straight game and was the coolest man in the park during the strife. He stayed out of the fighting and tended strictly to his pitching chores.

2) Dizzy Dean was soundly out-pitched by Hubbell and lost control of himself when a balk was called on him.

3) Dean obviously was throwing his "high, hard one" at the Giants' heads.

4) The usually docile Giants proved as tough as the Gashouse gang, giving punch for punch and carrying off a moral victory by outgunning the Cards.

The Giants won the ball game, 4-1, before 22,694 persons. Hubbell breezed on to his sixth straight triumph this season, and his 22nd since his last defeat July 13, 1936. Hubbell permitted only six hits, walked none and fanned seven. Joe Medwick's homer in the second was the only run scored off him. Dean was nicked for seven hits, walked two, hit another and fanned only five.

The battling was the result of a balk decision called by Umpire George Barr on Dean in the fifth when the Cards led, 1-0. Whitehead singled and went to second on a sacrifice. Bartell failed to left but Barr ruled that Dean failed to come to the necessary stop in his pitching motion after looking at the runner on second. Bartell came back and batted again. This time he lined to Pepper Martin, who dropped the ball, Whitehead scoring the tying run.

Dean tossed his glove in the air when the umpire called the balk. He gave every indication of wanting to quit the game. Then with the scored tied, 1-1, singles by Chiozza and Joe Moore scored two more runs. The Giants added another in the ninth after the rioting stopped.

After the fifth inning Dean started throwing at the Giants' heads. They were going up and down like duck pins. Finally Ripple bunted down the first base line, but Second Baseman Brown fielded the ball, Mize covering first. Dean got in the play anyway, and barely missed a head-on collision with Ripple. In a second Dean and Ripple were swinging.

OHIO U. AHEAD

COLUMBUS, May 20.—(UP)—Ohio University today had the first undisputed Buckeye conference baseball crown in the history of the Athens school. Coach Don Peden's great team won its ninth straight league encounter at Huntington, W. Va. when it defeated Marshall by a 9 to 0 count.

TIGER HARRIERS LOSE TO BEXLEY IN TRACK MEET

Failure To Win Relays Or Field Events Cost Red and Black

OWENS FIRST IN TRIO

Locals Go To Lancaster For Dual Contest

Bexley high school took all the relays and field events, Wednesday, to defeat Circleville high school's harriers in a 7½ to 5½ meet. The Bexley field was the scene of the engagement.

Absence of Don Henry hurt the Tiger chances, because Henry's marks in two or three of the field events are better than those which won for Bexley.

Bob Owens was the star of the Tiger crew with first places in 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes.

The Red and Black was in Lancaster Thursday afternoon for another dual meet.

About This And That In Many Sports

High School Grid Schedule Complete

Circleville high school's football team will play a nine-game schedule next fall with five frays at home and three, two of them at night, on the road. — E. E. Reger, faculty manager, disclosed the complete schedule Thursday after closing two-year contracts with Urbana, the first game to be played there Nov. 19, the last day on the Red and Black schedule. — The Champaign counties will come to Circleville the following fall. — Groveport will open the 1937 grid season by invading the high school field on Sept. 17. — A week later Worthington comes here, and the following Friday the Tigers trek up to Granville to meet Bob McConnell's usually speedy crew. — Sunbury is a Circleville guest Oct. 8, and the 15th finds the Red and Black going to Mt. Vernon, one of the major games on the schedule, for a nocturnal affair. — On Oct. 28, the highlight of the season is booked, Greenfield, on the local green-sward. — Nov. 5 finds the Tigers playing at night in Logan and then comes Grove City to Circleville, the final contest before the Urbana joust. . . . Not a bad schedule when it was feared the schedule could not be filled without some Central Buckeye league opposition. . . . Circleville fans and the boys with whom he works are pleased that Coach Jack Landrum has been employed for another year. — Landrum's influence over the youths with whom he has worked has been splendid, he has gained discipline and at the same time held the respect of the athletes. — The football season last fall was pretty good, despite losses to several Central Buckeye opponents. — The basketball season was the worst in recent years, for various reasons, but Spring sports have been successful, despite the fact that the baseball team gave up after only a few defeats. . . . Next year with the school out of any league, taking games as they come, it is almost certain improvement will be shown. . . . Anyway all Circleville is pulling for Jack and his boys. . . . What's happened to the finance committee to get the Stodge club's drive for football field lights under way? . . . Something must be done NOW and not in October if night games are going to be provided. — The board of education should get behind the Stodge club's splendid effort in every way it possibly can to assure the success of the program. — Lights on the football field will mean revenue increased from 100 to 200 percent, and maybe more than that. . . . However, nothing can be done if persons placed in responsible positions on committees do not get to work. . . .

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ONE-NO TRUMP HARDEST

A FINE PLAYER does not require high contracts in order to show his skill. Some of the prettiest work is done on the low ones, especially those of 1-No Trump, which ordinarily is the hardest contract of any kind to make, when it happens to be the correct contract.

Here West had bid a spade, North doubled, East passed and J. Lester Van Name, star of the New York Intercollegiate league, bid 1-No Trump in the South, which everybody passed.

The spade 5, covered by the J, was won by the Q. Reading now that, if West held a suit headed by A-K-10-9, he would have led an honor, he offered a small spade, sure that East had an honor which would win and no more of the suit, thus being obliged to lead up to the dummy. Had West covered with any of his high ones, everything would have been all right for him, but he played the 8 and East won with the 9. In a choice of evils, East led his club J to the Q. Reckoning that East would not have done this without four headed by the J-10, this would place West with nothing left but a singleton K. So Mr. Van Name played the club Ace, and sure enough the K fell. He returned the small club toward his 9-7, hoping East would duck, which he did, and then threw East back in again with the last club.

Confronted with leading up to the red suits on the table, East picked a low heart to the Q. A diamond was led, which East passed up, and the Q won. This made six tricks in, and a heart to the A provided the seventh which was needed to make the 1-No Trump on a deal in which the opponents had the majority of the strength.

COUNCIL STUDIES RESTROOMS TO COST $4,025; COUNTY TO SHARE EXPENSE

BARNES REPORTS DATA PREPARED FOR NEEDED JOB

Committee To Study Ways to Finance Project, Urged By Board of Health

COURTHOUSE LOCATION

Several Officials Ready To Approve Bond Issue

Installation of public restrooms in the courthouse will cost approximately $4,025. T. M. Barnes, chairman of council's service committee, reported Wednesday night.

Mr. Barnes said preliminary plans for the restrooms were prepared for the county commissioners by an engineer. Rough estimates were obtained.

The commissioners have agreed to pay one-half of the expense involved. They ask the city to pay the balance. Mr. Barnes' report was referred to a committee of council as a whole to study means of financing the project. Mr. Barnes was named chairman.

In an informal discussion following the council meeting, several members said they were in favor of immediate action on the proposition, and if necessary they would approve a bond issue to take care of the expense.

Council received a letter from the city board of health requesting immediate action be taken on the project. "Cooperation on the part of all concerned will mean that Circleville will have a public restroom," the letter stated. It was referred to the committee.

The restrooms would be located in the front basement of the courthouse immediately back of the front steps. Entrances would be constructed on each side of the steps.

a hotel, where she had registered as "Dr. V. K. Maher." She seemed thoroughly familiar with the case of the Ohio co-ed, who vanished May 4 from Austin hall, a dormitory at Ohio Wesleyan.

Bridgework Different

She posed as Miss Baumgardner, but refused to talk by telephone to Mrs. Ora Hardwick, a sister of the missing student. From Mrs. Hardwick, police learned that Miss Baumgardner had certain bridgework which could not be found in the mouth of the "mystery girl."

St. Louis police reported that they had no record of any missing person named Catherine Gartner. But last night, the girl talked by telephone to a Charles Karl Gartner of Cleveland, who, according to police seemed to recognize her.

The girl told police she had traveled through Cleveland, Buffalo, N. Y., and Albany, N. Y., and had been here a week. She said she had 51 cents left of the $200 she had "borrowed from my sorority."

"I'm a problem child," she said, flicking cigarette ashes on the floor. "Those four years of college work were just too much. I had to escape from myself—I had to get away."

"I hypnotized a pigeon on Boston common yesterday," she said. "But you couldn't do that!"

That was enough for the questioners. They let her away, after showing a photograph of Miss Baumgardner and asking, "Is that a picture of yourself?"

"It might be me," she replied.

Miss Baumgardner was a senior at Ohio Wesleyan, and would have graduated next month. She was regarded as a "good student" by school officials. She majored in art, and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. When she

Sheriff Radcliff said all persons questioned told substantially the same story about the affair.

Babb had severely beaten his wife, and she had sought refuge at the Teets home. Babb followed her to the home in his auto, parked it in the front yard with the car's lights burning and started toward the home making the threat he would "kill them all," Sheriff Radcliff said.

Flashlight Carried

Babb was carrying a nickel-plated flashlight, not lighted and those in the home thought it was a gun. Sheriff Radcliff said both Teets and his father told him they warned Babb not to approach the home. When Babb continued toward the house, Teets fired the gun.

Funeral services for Babb will be held in the home Friday at 2 p. m. with Rev. D. H. Householder officiating. Burial will be in Springlawn cemetery in charge of C. E. Hill.

Commercial rates offered by the company were: first four-year period, first 50 kwh, 6 cents per kwh; next 50, 5 cents; next 400, 4 cents; next 500, 3 cents; next 1,500, 2 1/2 cents and all over 2,500, 2 cents; next six-year period, first 100 kwh, 5 cents; next 400, 4 cents; next 500, 3 cents, next 1,500, 2 1/2 cents, and all over 2,500, 2 cents.

Thorough Study Made

When presenting the resolution, Mr. Wallace informed council that the committee he appointed was comprised of representatives of some of the city's oldest business establishments. "We made a thorough study of rates in localities around Circleville, and I think we have made an offer that is fair to the company and the consumers," he stated.

Wallace Crist, a member of the committee, spoke briefly, pointing out that lower rates than those offered Circleville were being enjoyed in Williamsport and Ashville. He said he had been informed that some of the larger consumers of the city were permitted special rates. "I think council should give fair consideration to all users before granting a contract," Crist added.

Nathan Groban, another member of the committee, urged councilmen "not to tie up the future of Circleville under a 10-year contract." Groban said citizens approached concerning rates were not in favor of a contract for more than five years.

Councilman Tull M. Barnes contended the company, the Chamber of Commerce and council were "too far apart" in their prices. He asked why the committee of businessmen had waited so long before taking part in the rate controversy. President Wallace corrected Barnes when he mentioned the committee as a Chamber of Commerce delegation. "These men represent the citizens of Circleville," he said, "and some of them are not Chamber of Commerce members."

Councilman Marion said he would call a meeting of the three groups as soon as possible. He declared the delay in settling the rate question was costing the people of Circleville about $900 a month.

"We will be ready for a meeting tomorrow morning if council and the company officials are ready," Wallace said.

"I believe we are on the right track in the rate question now," Council President John Goeller said.

Ed Mason and Fred Brunner, other members of the committee, were present, but did not speak.

Harry Hill, Circleville implement dealer, was awarded $250 by a common pleas court jury Wednesday night in his suit against Alex Mace, Ross county, for $438.98 on an account for repairs, improvements on a tractor, and storage charges.

The case was presented to the jury about 4:30 p. m. The verdict was announced about 8 p. m. The jurors took no time out for supper, informing the judge they preferred to continue their deliberations. Eleven jurors signed the verdict. William Spangler, Salt-creek township, foreman, did not sign it.

SENIOR PLAY

"Wings of the Morning" has a touch of something or other that distinguishes it from most amateur productions and makes it seem professional.

The acting ran smoothly from start to finish and every role, whether a major one or a bit part, was capably enacted. Several of the actors were outstanding. Foremost among these was Joe Smalley in his role of Tonio Di Silvestri, the political-minded Italian fruit vendor. Joe's mastery of an Italian dialect and his splendid acting supported much of the play in just the right way. John Rankin, as Master Geoffrey, and Gayle Wolfe, as Eben Forthright, deserve separate bouquets for their enactments of difficult character parts. And while speaking of character parts, one can't overlook the splendid portrayal of the old lady from the home, Mrs. Ellis. Jessie Dresbach took the part, and "took it to town." Her acting was flawless throughout the play.

Credit is due also to Jack Brown and Richard Weldon for the respective roles of Adrian Powell, the poet, and Dr. David Banning.

the surgeon. Ruby Chalfin and Eleanor Dreisbach turned in fine performances in the roles of Benedetta, the spirited daughter of Tonio, and Joyce Calvert, the dress designer. In fact, everyone was good, for to turn out a good play everyone must be.

The supporting roles of Loa, Joyce's maid, played by Kathleen Greene, Nana Cooper as Tonio's wife, Effie, the nurse at the old ladies home, taken by Eleanor Pierce, Charlotte Cook as Trudy, the granddaughter of Mrs. Ellis, and Don Henry as Stanley Gordon, the aviator servant of Master Geoffrey, were all good. Outstanding among these was Wahnita Barnhart's role of Ellen, Master Geoffrey's sister. Each and every one added to the complete success of the show.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein.

Committee Confers With Council, Suggesting Reduced Prices

Marion Cites Cost of $900 Month to Citizens

A new schedule of light rates for residences and business houses was suggested to council, Wednesday evening, by a committee of merchants, appointed recently by W. E. Wallace, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Councilmen referred the proposed schedule to the committee headed by Frank Marion. It will be considered by the C. of C. committee, councilmen and power company officials in a joint meeting to be arranged soon.

Resolution Presented

Schedules listed were: residential: first 60 kwh, 5 cents per kwh; next 40, 4 cents; all over 100, 3 cents; commercial: first 100 kwh, 5 cents; next 400, 3 cents; next 500, two and a half cents; and all over 1,000 kwh, 2 cents.

The residential schedule suggested by the committee is the same as offered by the electric company for the last six years under a proposed 10-year contract. For the first four-year period under the (Continued on Page Twelve)

Collections at Berger hospital from May 1 to May 15 amounted to $497.24.

GIFTS FROM RICH AND POOR ARRIVE FOR DUKE, WALLY

MONTS, France, May 20—(UP)—Wedding presents began to arrive at the Chateau De Candé today for the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

A room was set aside for them and the others that are to come. So far there was none from any member of the royal family. But gifts ranged from expensive silver to the home made offerings of peasants from the countryside.

Acceptances are being received for the wedding June 3. Included among the acceptors, it is understood, are the British Minister to Austria, Sir Walford Selby and Lady Selby and Hugh Lloyd Thomas, minister in the British embassy at Paris, and his wife.

The weather continued chilly and cloudy. Unable to golf because of the wet ground, the duke plays badminton daily, and under his tutelage Mrs. Warfield is becoming a good player.

SCOUT FINANCES TO BE DISCUSSED AT M. E. MEETING

All men interested in the future of Boy Scouting in Circleville and Pickaway county are urged to attend a meeting in the Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Plans will be discussed for a financial drive.

The Central Ohio Area of Scouts is comprised of eight counties. Seven of these counties have for the last seven years carried their share of the operating cost of the council. Pickaway county has not shared in the expense, but has continued to receive service that was financed by the other counties. Robert H. Heistand, Scout executive, explained the situation has reached the point where a financial campaign must be held. The meeting will be ended before 9 p.m.

RAIL ESPIONAGE CITED

Roundup Follows Accord Of Anti-Communists

ABAROVSK, Siberia, May 20.—Forty-four alleged agents of the Japanese and German intelligence services, including one woman, have been sentenced to death as spies, it was announced today.

Such executions are carried out secretly, and it was understood the 44 were taken out and shot immediately after sentence had been passed by the military collegium of the supreme court of the Soviet Union.

The trial was held at a special session of the court at Svobodny in the far East. The prisoners were accused specifically of spying and sabotage on the strategic trans-Siberian railway.

Accord Aftermath

The roundup of the anti-communist accord signed between Germany and Japan last year, with subsequent suspicion on both sides and rumors of activities along the railway making Moscow to her far eastern provinces.

The line connects with the Japanese-controlled Manchukuoan railway at Manchuli, on the Manchukuo-Siberian frontier. It runs close to the Manchukuo border from there on to Habarovsk and its terminal at Vladivostok, through the Amur valley. Frequent "incidents" on the line and the frontier have caused unrest to grow in recent months.

NEW SIT - ROWN CLOSES DETROIT PLYMOUTH FIRM

DETROIT, May 20—(UP)—A sit-down strike today closed down the assembly line of the Plymouth Motor Car company's plant here, making idle between 3,000 and 4,000 workers.

A Chrysler corporation spokesman who announced the strike said that its cause was not known to officials. Headquarters of the United Automobile Workers of America professed no knowledge of the labor trouble.

Herman L. Weckler, vice president of Chrysler in charge of industrial relations, and Lester L. Colbert, resident attorney—negotiators in the recent Chrysler strike settlement—hastened to the plant to confer with Fred Chapman, plant manager.

LANCASTER MAY BUILD ADDITION TO HIGH SCHOOL

LANCASTER, May 20—The board of education and school officials have announced plans for a $12,000 addition to the high school building to provide for a new industrial arts department.

Plans for a three-story, 30 by 60 addition to the rear of the east wing of the old building have been prepared. The school has petitioned W. P. A. to include the addition as a Lancaster city project.

The addition was originally planned when the auditorium and gymnasium were erected, but was omitted at that time due to insufficient funds.

Lindy Secluded On Anniversary

Famous Flight of 10 Years Ago Celebrated in New York and Paris, But Aviator Remains in Home Near London

LONDON, May 20.—(UP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, who 10 years ago today started from New York on a flight to Paris few thought could end on land, spent his 10th anniversary a virtual recluse at his country home in Kent.

There were local celebrations in New York and Paris but Lindbergh himself, to whom it brought world fame and riches—and black tragedy—ignored it.

An unobtrusive police guard round the home, and a big, toothy—German police dog which he imported from the United States, were sufficient evidences of Lindbergh's attitude, that he wants to be left alone.

British Given Lesson
He has shown traditionally reticent Britons how to be reticent, and the chief attention which he excites here is due to his strenuous efforts to avoid attention.

Lindbergh, his wife and their son Jon, live in a rambling old home, Long Barn, at Weald, near Sevenoaks 20 miles from the center of the city. Lindbergh motors about the country in his little automobile, flies at times—last winter with his wife to India—and goes quietly to London where he is unnoticed.

He was at the opening of the civil aviation headquarters here a couple of weeks ago. A young aviator asked an official who was the first man to fly the Atlantic alone. The official pointed and said: "There he is behind you." No one of the general public had (Continued on Page Twelve)

BRITAIN'S RULER REVIEWS FLEETS AS GUNS SOUND

WITH THE KING'S FLEET PROCESSION, SPITHEAD, May 20—(UP)—The guns of the mightiest fleet ever assembled in the history of the world thundered in salute today as King George VI reviewed the might of Great Britain's sea power and the warships of 17 foreign nations at his coronation review.

The king and queen and little Princess Elizabeth, heir to the throne, stood on the bridge of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert as it steamed slowly down the line of 227 ships, covering an area of 24 square miles between Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight, and aggregating 52 miles in length.

It was an impressive sight. The flags of all nations fluttered in the breeze. The shores were black with cheering thousands, groups of whom burst spontaneously in singing "Rule Britannia—Britannia Rule the Waves."

Senior Class Play Thrills First-Night Audience

By HILDEBURN JONES, JR.
Again Wednesday evening, a fair sized crowd of Circleville "first-nighters" was thrilled by the Senior class presentation of "Wings of the Morning". The word "again" is used because it is the second big hit this season produced with high school talent by Roy H. Bowen, dramatics coach at Circleville high school. Much credit is due Mr. Bowen for the play is a difficult one, not only as to acting ability, but as to staging.

IRONTON FACES VOTE SCANDAL

Five Officials and Lumber Dealer Named in Jury's Indictments

IRONTON, May 20—(UP)—Deputy sheriffs had the task today of serving indictments on five Lawrence county officials and a lumber dealer who were connected with election frauds last November by a special grand jury.

The officials are Pearl A. Pratt, auditor; Dan C. Rapp, deputy auditor; Elizabeth Griffith, auditor's clerk and former county relief director; Wade Webb, court bailiff and former deputy sheriff, and John Zeek, appraiser in the auditor's office. The lumber dealer is Williams Dickens, Republican candidate for county commissioner last year.

The indictments charged the election fraud was carried out in an effort to elect Dickens.

All but those indicted except Miss Griffith were expected to surrender today. Miss Griffith's family said she had gone to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. for a vacation. Arrangement is scheduled for Friday.

Dickens and the late County Commissioner Harry H. Banton, a Democrat, were candidates for the office last fall. Banton was elected on the first count, but Dickens was declared elected after a recount. Banton charged ballots had been tampered with and he was declared elected by the court.

George E. Clark, a Democrat, was appointed county commissioner last year to fill the vacancy caused by Banton's death.

Girl's Story Hoax, Aver Policemen

BOSTON, May 20—(UP)—An attractive blonde who gave several different names after being found at a back bay hotel told police today that her real name was Mary V. Davenport, 18, of Troy, N. Y. She said that she had been confined to the Hudson river state hospital at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BOSTON, May 20—(UP)—Police sought to identify an attractive "mystery girl" today, who talked gaily of "hypnotizing pigeons" on Boston common and drinking cocktails throughout the East.

The girl, a blonde, self-styled "problem child," at first described herself as Ruth Baumgardner, missing Ohio Wesleyan university co-ed, but said later that she was Catherine Gartner of St. Louis, and still later that she was Virginia Maher of New York.

Her stories became so conflicting last night that police ordered her removed to a detention cell to "get her thoughts in order." After checking with authorities in the three cities they discovered that she was not Miss Baumgardner nor Miss Gartner nor Miss Maher. The girl was found yesterday in (Continued on Page Twelve)

LOGAN'S BILL FAVORED

Efforts to Swing Uncertain Solon Under Way

WASHINGTON, May 20—(UP)—The administration began pushing another legislative program out in front of the battered supreme court bill today. It was a move that was expected to decide whether President Roosevelt's judiciary program will be compromised or killed.

Outmaneuvered at every stage of the battle over enlargement of the high tribunal, the administration strategists suddenly changed their tactics after Monday's jolting reverses. They started a quiet undercover campaign to salvage as much as possible of the original judiciary program.

Short of Majority

The new strategy, it was asserted, did not mean that hope of enacting the president's proposal for six new justices had been abandoned, but it was an admission by leaders in the court campaign that they are definitely short of a senate majority.

able after the senate judiciary committee's unfavorable report and the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter—led the administration to a new line of attack. It involved:

1. A poll of uncommitted senators to determine whether the bill can be enacted or whether a compromise such as an eleven-justice court or the proposal of Sen. M. M. Logan, D., Ky., for a limit of one justice a year would be approved.
2. Permitting the judiciary battle to cool while congressional attention is centered on log- (Continued on Page Twelve)

Jones and Laughlin Firm Ballot May Decide Hope of Lewis Organization

Labor Board Requested to Act Against Republic Co.

PITTSBURGH, May 20 — (UP) — Twenty-seven thousand Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation employees voted today to determine who will represent them in collective bargaining, while the federal government investigated charges that a rival independent producer had sought to interfere with the election.

On the outcome of the balloting hinged John L. Lewis' chances of obtaining contracts for his steel workers' organizing committee from the largest independent companies, which together employ more than 150,000 workers.

National Labor Relations board officials, who supervised the voting, investigated a union complaint that the Republic Steel corporation had sent private police and "thugs" to Jones & Laughlin plants here and at Alliquippa, Pa., to "interfere with the government election."

The Republic corporation, one of the five independents which have been threatened with strikes unless they signed collective bargaining contracts with the steel workers' committee, admitted that it had sent "a few trained observers" to Alliquippa, but denied any plan to interfere.

electricity on Ohio farms. A great deal of experimental work has been performed to determine the most economical ways of installing and operating equipment for rural use. Only a comparatively small part of the farms in the state now have electricity available although the building of power lines has increased tremendously in the last two years.

University specialists estimate there were 201,573 Ohio farms without electric service on July 31, 1936. That is almost 10 times as many farms as obtained electricity through companies financed by the rural electrification administration in the last two years, so there is still a great deal of work to be done before all Ohio farm owners will be able to start servants working by closing a switch.

FUNDS FOR TEST PITS TO CONCERN CITY OFFICIALS

Obtaining funds for preliminary work in connection with the construction of the disposal plant was referred to Solicitor Carl C. Leist and the service committee of council, Wednesday night.

Leist explained funds were needed to dig test pits at the plant site and for other expenses. He added council should not consider issuance of notes without taking into consideration the whole bond issue. He recommended the financing be given further discussion.

McLaughlin Discusses Farm Truck License Plates

James McLaughlin, deputy registrar of motor vehicles for Circleville has received several rulings concerning the law dealing with reduced rates for license plate fees for farm trucks.

One is in reply to a query concerning definition of farm trucks. Frank West, state registrar, informs McLaughlin that farm trucks may be used to assist neighbors in threshing provided no compensation is received from such use. If compensation is received farm truck license plates may not be used because the law prohibits the use of such plates for commercial purposes.

A farm truck is defined as "one used in the transportation from the farm of products of the farm, including livestock and its products, poultry and its products, horticultural and horticultural products, and transportation to the farm of supplies for the farm, including tile, fence and every other thing or commodity used in agricultural, horticultural, livestock and poultry production, and livestock, poultry and other animals and/or things used for breeding, feeding or other purposes connected with the operation of the farm or farms. The term farm supplies shall include fuel used exclusively in the operation of a farm, including one or more houses located on and used in the operation of one or more farms and/or furniture and other things used in and around such houses.

A special license plate bearing the word "farm" instead of "truck" will be issued and bear numerals without letters and without the thousand pounds classification or designation.

Farm truck license plates are transferable only from one truck to another farm truck and are not transferable to any other type of truck. Regular truck license plates are not transferable to a farm truck.

Miss Flora Dunlap of Des Moines, Iowa, was guest speaker, Monday evening, when the Sorosis club met at the home of Miss Carolyn Bochard.

Miss Dunlap in a most interesting manner told of her recent trips to Finland, Sweden and Russia. Accompanied by a lady friend of Iowa, the trip was made for the purpose of studying co-operative farming.

During the address, many pictures were displayed, also samples of woven cloth, all in bright red, as used by the natives. Many humorous bits of information were intermingled with the interesting discussion, affording a most delightful evening for the assembly.

A short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. W. D. Heiskell.

Ashville's Commercial Department Successful

Many Outstanding Pupils Enrolled During Year;
Other Village Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Commercial classes in Ashville high school during the last two years have reached a new high for both enrollment and scholarship.
Twenty typewriters were kept busy during the greater part of five periods each day and gross speeds up to seventy words per minute were made by several students.

At the present writing, Mary Elizabeth Miller with sixty-two net (gross minus 50 strokes for each error) words per minute represents a speed most consistently high, while Lucile Hedges with fifty-nine, Ruth Courtwright with fifty-eight, and Walter Gregg with fifty-four, are especially skilled in accurate typing. Walter having written for ten minutes without an error and Lucile making one mistake on the same type of test.

In the first year group of typewriting, Wilma Creager holds the highest speed and accuracy marks with fifty-two words per minute, but is being pressed to hold this lead by Jane Alexander, Helen Boyer, and Kathryn Bowers.

The Bookkeeping class, good, if not the best in the history of A. H. S., contains several outstanding students, chiefly among which is Caroline Kuhlwein, who maintained an "E" average throughout the year and led the class in practice set work. All students are expected to finish practice material this week, thereby becoming the first class in the last few years to accomplish this feat.

All work on the practice sets is done in class, no home work being allowed in this phase of the course.

Filing has been studied for the last two years as a laboratory project, supplementary to advanced stenography, and this course makes it possible for the commercial student to know something about this important part of office practice, along with their knowledge of typewriting and shorthand.

Outstanding students in stenography II are Jane Lindsey, Iva Jean Good, and Martha Martin, while in the first year class Clara belle Hoover and Wilma Creager hold the best records.

Certificates of proficiency are awarded annually to leading bookkeeping and typewriting students.
Names of these winners have not yet been announced.

Economic geography and business arithmetic are other commercial subjects given this year at A. H. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heskett are to occupy the cottage near the grocery and meat market of J.
S. Hoover and formerly occupied by the Hoover family. The Heskett intend to move here from Circleville in the very near future. Mr.
Heskett is our new barber and says he has more work than he really expected because he is "new" here.

Elected by Soldiers

It was Captain Stanley Stevenson then when he was high commander of Company F Ohio National Guards, Circleville. "He was placed in command of this company of soldiers by the boys of the company themselves, being permitted to choose their own commander." Sam Plummer said to us yesterday. "We all liked "Captain Steve" as he was commonly called, and never asked any one of us to do anything he wouldn't do himself." Now this Stanley Stevenson is a civil engineer with Kansas City's home. He graduated from Ashville high school in 1911.

Ashville—
Thomas Successful

James Thomas, South Bloomfield, told us this morning about the good results he and Mrs. Thomas has had in chick hatching with an incubator. The machine was "set" with 180 eggs and at the end of the incubation period, 100 fine little chicks were removed from the wooden hen. And the good part of it all is, the whole lot is all alive and doing fine. The incubator was kept in an upstairs room over the stove and where the chicks are now housed at two weeks of age. "Yes, I know they should be out and down on the ground and we'll get 'em there soon," he said. He said the lot is all purebred R. I. Reds the eggs being produced by the Sowell Beers flock. Jim says this is not "just another story", but the whole truth.

ART ARNOLD'S COUSIN FROM UTAH Sees a "torture test"

"Believe me," he writes, "I KNOW Hudson and Terraplane are the No. 1 CARS. I saw what they did on the Salt Flats"

"I saw a LOW PRICED car beat the best any closed car had ever done before! That 1937 Terraplane . . . a stock car, mind you, picked at random by the American Automobile Association Contest Board officials . . . went 1,000 miles out there on those great Salt Flats, averaging 86.54 miles an hour!
What a 'torture test' of endurance.

"Then a Hudson . . . 2104 miles in 24 hours!
Out here, we've seen a lot of stock cars come to the Salt Flats and try for that 24-hour record . . . the prize of them all. But none ever touched what we saw that 1937 Hudson do! 87.67 miles an hour . . . for a full day and night! 32 official records for Hudson . . .
on top of 8 for Terraplane!"

"Then those California records! Terraplane beat every other leading low priced car . . .
and Hudson beat every other Eight . . . in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run. And then . . . the Wrightwood Canyon climb! Up 9 wicked, twisting miles in 8 minutes, 30 seconds for Terraplane; 8 minutes, 0.4 seconds for an official Hudson record.

"You can bet it's Hudson for me! Those people know how to build automobiles. Art.
More power. More size and room. More economy and safety and endurance than any other cars anywhere near them in price.
I've got mine . . . and once you drive one, you'll say it's your No. 1 CAR, too! See if you don't!"

No. 1 Cars of the Low and Moderate Price Fields
No. 1 Wheelbases . . . 117 inches in Terraplane; 122 and 129 inches in Hudson.
No. 1 Horsepower . . . 96 and 101 in Terraplane;
101, 107 and 122 in Hudson. Double carburetion in Super Terraplane and all Hudson Sixes and Eights.
No. 1 Roominess . . . 55 full inches of front seat comfort for three.
No. 1 Driving Ease . . . with exclusive Selective Automatic Shift (on optional extra).
Hydraulic Hill-Hold, optional extra on all models—46 models—choice of 12 beautiful colors . . . also a complete

COUNTIANS FILE 26 MORE INCOME TAXES IN 1936

Figures Disclosed By U. S.
Department Reveal National Increase

ROSS, SCIOTO HIGHER
State of Ohio Has 36,050
More Than Last Year

Cincinnati residents filed 16 more income tax returns for the 1936 period than they did in 1935, internal revenue figures, disclosed today, reveal.

In 1935, 186 persons filed returns, while for 1936 the figure was 202. Ashville showed an increase, too, with 30 reported, five more than in 1935. The county's total was 265 compared to 239.

More Chillicotheans paid this year than last with 1,079 listed as compared with 892 for 1935.

Scioto county showed 1,451 compared with 1,221.

For the entire state, the number of income tax returns filed increased from 214,493 in 1935 to 250,543 in 1936. The number of tax returns in the United States jumped from 4,201,859 in 1935 to 4,666,504 in 1936.

Income taxes for 1936 were listed in blanks submitted to the government early in 1937.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Restoration of a prehistoric Indian ceremonial council at Ocmulgee National Monument project, near Macon, Ga., is expected to begin soon, the National Park Service announces.

The council chamber is one of the most interesting archeological finds in the country. It is a circular, earthen chamber, much like the kiva of the Southwest. The entire clay floor area is intact, and a portion of the circular wall is standing.

There is a large eagle effigy altar or dais on which three seats are fashioned, and 47 other council seats line the wall and face a baked clay fire pit in the center.
An inner structure of four wooden central pillars supporting the roof of rafters, matting and clay, rebuilt from evidences revealed by excavations, later will cover all signs of modern construction.

When structural restoration is completed, the original soil will be placed over the entire unit to recreate its primitive appearance.
The lodge then will resemble a great earthen beehive.

Scientific exploration has been under way at Ocmulgee River area since 1933. Discoveries seem to link the cultures of the Southeast with those of the prehistoric Southwest. In addition to the council chamber, there are a number of Indian mounds, pits, plateaus, and adjoining the council

In Alienation Suit

TESTIFYING as defendant in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed against her in Detroit court by Mrs. Charles H.
Cullinan, of Washington, D. C., Laura Strittmatter, a clerk in the Home Owners Loan corporation's Detroit office, said that Cullinan had represented himself as divorced when she—Miss Strittmatter—married him in June, 1935. She had the marriage annulled a year later. Mrs.
Cullinan charges that Miss Strittmatter "stole" her husband's love when he was transferred to Detroit from Washington for a short time in 1935 as junior auditor of the H.O.L.C. office.

NEW APPROACH MAY DECREASE SINUS SURGERY

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A decrease in the use of surgery in treating sinus disorders is expected as a result of a 20-month research by Washington University's school of medicine in which it was shown that many cases of sinus infections are due to allergic susceptibility of various substances.

According to Dr. Lee W. Dean, head of the medical school, a method has been found to determine accurately whether a particular case of sinus trouble is due to germ infection or to allergy without infection. This research showed, he stated, that all allergic sinus cases can be aided without resorting to surgery.

Allergy—a condition of unusual susceptibility to a substance which the majority of people find harmless—causes sinus disease by producing stagnation of the nasal sinus discharges which then be-chamber, there is an ancient corn field, possibly 1,000 years old, with furrows still intact.

It was in this region that the Greek Indians formed their confederacy which defeated the Ap-palachee Indians, allies of Spain, and so helped determine that this part of the United States should be English rather than Spanish.

Luckoff's New Store To Open Friday at 9 near Main, handling a complete line of wearing apparel for the entire family, will be held Friday at 9 a. m.

manager. Mr. Robinson comes to Circleville with a wide experience in the clothing and merchandising business. He was associated with the Kline Bros. Co., operators of a chain of 35 stores, for six and a half years as assistant store manager. Previously he was associated with the F. W. Woolworth Co., and the F. W. Grand Dollar stores.

Mr. Robinson, his wife and son,
3, are residing in the Dunton apartments.

Assisting Mr. Robinson will be persons well known to local shop-be cashier and bookkeeper, and Arthur Barr will be stock manager and in charge of the order department.

The Caskey building, in which the new store is located, has been completely remodeled and redecorated. Modern show windows have been installed, and new equipment purchased.

"Honest values and a guarantee on every piece of merchandise regardless of how low the price will be the policy followed," Mr. Robinson said.

Luckoff's Inc., operates stores in Lancaster, Athens, Logan, Nelsonville, Glouster, Pomeroy and Gallipolis. Subsidiaries of the concern are the Chain Store Outlet
Co., and the Clothing Exchange,

Athens, and daily delivery of stock will be maintained between the warehouse and the Circleville store.

come a good breeding ground for microbes.

In place of surgery, Dr. Dean said, for better results can be achieved by allergic treatment, plus the use of vaccine proper diet and normalization of the nasal passages. The best results can be obtained by first controlling the allergic condition and then attacking the infection of the sinuses in a conservative way, he said.

HELIUM

OUT of the twisted mass of steel on the Lakehurst field comes a myriad of rumors. One of these stories that is going the rounds concerns the restriction of the sale of helium by the United States Government to foreign powers. It is the opinion of some people, not any too well versed in what they are attempting to say, that if the Government had not refused to sell helium to Germany the accident would not have happened.

This thought should be at once dismissed as untruthful. As a matter of fact, in 1929 President Hoover and Dr. Eckener, commander of the Graf, discussed the relative merits of helium and hydrogen. The German official was informed that the United States would sell helium for German airships, but according to authentic sources, Dr. Eckener did not take kindly to the proposal. He seemed to think that it was not worth while substituting the lower-priced hydrogen for the more expensive helium. He expressed the belief that German dirigibles were so carefully made and handled that it was not necessary to make the change. It is true that two months later the Helium Control Board rejected an application for export of the gas because the applicant failed to specify the destination, purpose or use as required by law. The Government has a perfect right to reject such offers. It will sell helium for peace purposes and not for military craft. It has now been developed that neither the German Government nor any of its representatives ever applied for helium. Thus, the United States can in no measure be held responsible for anything that happened at Lakehurst.

Let us not voice empty conjectures about the Government "hogging" the supply of helium. There has been no evidence to support it. Loose talk of this kind does not make for cordial relations. Those people who have so little to do in life as to ignorantly and stupidly condemn their Government for something that was not done should refrain from idle gossip and senseless denunciation.

PIE FOR BREAKFAST

JUDGE FRED FOOTE, 88 years old and pie-hungry, has filed a protest in his native town of Middlebury, Vermont, at the disappearance of pie from the breakfast menu. His complaint is not without justification. If you eliminate pie from a New England breakfast, you take away the charm and flavor from that meal. However, he is deprived of an opportunity of existing on a pie-diet in order to show the remainder of a scoffing world that pie is not necessarily a desert item for dinner and supper, and not the mainstay of truck drivers and sundry transients in the many lunchwagons that dot our historic country.

Judge Foote is not alone in the battle to restore the breakfast pie. Judge L. C. Russell, who is an authority on all that concerns New England, believes that the rising generation needs two kinds of pie to give them pep in their morning work, and Charles Dana, who admits to have sampled 108 different kinds of pie, believes that if there is a slackening in mental activity among the youth of today, the remedy may well be found in a return to the old-fashioned menu of pie and plenty of it for the first meal of the day.

Observing Italy's armed might in operation in Spain, Ethiopians are beginning to wonder why they permitted themselves to be whipped.

World At A Glance

This is pure gossip.
When President Roosevelt got back to Washington, after his fishing trip to the Gulf of Mexico he called certain Democratic leaders into conference with him at the White House.
They were:
Vice President John N. Garner, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader in the upper congressional chamber; Speaker John H. Bankhead of the house of representatives, and Representative Sam Rayburn. Democratic leader in the lower house of congress.
A REBELLION?
These four are rumored to have warned the White House tenant: "A rebellion is afoot against you on Capitol Hill."
Vice President Garner is represented as the most distinctly anti-administrative. Robinson is spoken of as one who is particularly pre-administrative but who doesn't like the plan.
Bankhead doesn't like the plan, either.
Rayburn likes it well enough, but is scared.
PRESIDENT'S RESPONSE:
All told, these advisers are said to have counseled:
"Go slowly."
The presidential answer, as said to have been (again I record only rumor), was:

Conclusion?
The president's rulership of the house of representatives is unquestionable.
In the senate it is doubtful.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

ROBERT JACKSON IS CORPORATION LAWYER WHO BECAME LIBERAL

WASHINGTON — There are many paradoxes in the New Deal, but none more extraordinary than Robert Houghwout Jackson.

Neither a college man nor a professor, he has fathered more of the Administration's innovations than the famed Brain Trusters. He is one of the most advanced economic and social thinkers in Washington, but has somehow escaped the fire and fury of the opposition while much less Leftist figures have been hounded and blasted. A former corporation lawyer and utility director, as a government attorney he has been one of the most aggressive and effective foes of these interests in the country.

And finally Jackson, devoid of political pull or power, has risen in three years through sheer brilliance of ability in an atmosphere surcharged with politics. From a modest private practice in Jamestown, N. Y., he rose to senior Assistant Attorney General, third in rank in the Justice Department.

That is a long way to go from scratch in so short a time. But keep your eye on this personable young man. In the next three years he will go much further. Governor of New York, Cabinet member, Justice of the Supreme Court—anyone of them is a good bet.

NEW HE WAS GOOD

The Capital has just begun to realize how good a man Jackson is. President Roosevelt and Secretary Henry Morgenthau have known it for a long time.

As Governor of New York Roosevelt appointed Jackson to a special commission to study the State's courts. Another member of the group was Herman O. Oliphant, of Johns-Hopkins University, now general counsel of the Treasury. The two men turned in a report that made legal history.

When Morgenthau assumed the Treasury portfolio in 1934, one of the first things he did was to bring Jackson to Washington and make him general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau. And one of the first things that Jackson did was to pick up the Mellon tax evasion suit where a Pittsburgh grand jury had dropped it.

Some months previous the jury had refused to indict the one-time Secretary of the Treasury and Ambassador to Great Britain on criminal charges. Jackson re-opened the case in a $3,000,000 tax recovery and penalty suit, and fought it through various court actions to a show-down in the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals, which has been deliberating the matter for more than a year.

With this fusillade as a starter, Jackson swung into high gear as a New Deal crusader.

CHAPTER 55
"THIS WILL be the last job you shall do for me, Charles," smiled the Colonel. "You'll have the paper as soon as I get my $100,000, and thereafter you can be an upright, honest, God-fearing, solicitor, who can hold up his head in the law courts and look judges in the face. And this time it's quite a pleasant job. You'll be marrying the girl you want to marry—and who wants to marry you."
"All right, you needn't rub it in," interrupted Charles. "You know I've really no choice in the matter."
"Then you agree?"
Charles nodded.
"Congratulations!" said Lutman. "I feel sure you will be very happy. I shall give you a very handsome wedding present. And now, just to celebrate the occasion, if there is anything in that safe of yours—a little whiskey, perhaps..."
"I counted on your wanting that," said Charles with a smile. "So I brought a fresh bottle in with me."
He rose, went to the safe, and opened the door. A few minutes later he turned, placed two glasses on the desk, tipped some whiskey into each and added some soda.
Lutman stood up and raised his glass.
"To you and Jacqueline, Charles!" he said, and drained his glass. "I hope you'll be very happy. Marriage, my good Charles, is a most momentous—a most momentous—step..."
He staggered, reeled backward, and clutched at a chair for support. He glanced across at Charles who stood faintly smiling beside the desk, and his face was suddenly livid with fury.
"Damn you!" he gasped. "Curse you for a dirty double-crossing swine..."
He swayed, seemed to crumple up, and sank in a heap on the floor.
Instantly the lawyer stepped forward, thrust a hand into the breast pocket of Lutman's coat, and pulled out the contents. There was a thick folded document and a leather wallet. Charles, glancing at the document, saw that it was the deed that Jacqueline had signed. He tore it into fragments and tossed them into the wastepaper basket. Then, opening the wallet, he examined the contents carefully, selected a disheveled paper, read the faded writing, and then suddenly ripped the sheet to pieces. There was a small memorandum book, too, which, after a hasty glance inside, he slipped into his pocket. Then, replacing the wallet in the unconscious man's pocket, he stooped, pulled aside the threadbare strip of carpet, and laid bare a trap door in the floor. This he opened, and kneeling, peered down through the opening.
"Allright!" he called.
"O. K., mister!" came a hoarse voice; and a moment later the head and shoulders of Captain Allwright emerged from the trap door. "Well and truly out. Allright!" smiled Charles, with a wave toward Lutman's motionless figure. "All ready?"
"All ready, mister. Shove him along," replied Allwright, and disappeared.
Charles seized Lutman's shoulder, dragged him to the trap door, thrust his legs through the opening, and slowly lowered him into Captain Allwright's arms.
"O. K.!" came Allwright's voice, and Charles closed the trap door, straightened himself, and was turning toward the desk when he saw the door of the outer office open. Jacqueline stood in the doorway.
"Is everything all right, Charles?"
"Absolutely. Why?"
"I thought I heard voices."
"I've been talking to Lutman."
"Where is he?"
Charles smiled.
"On his way to Antwerp, with Captain Allwright."
He thrust his hands into his pockets and began to pace the room, smiling.
"Charles, don't strut!"
"Am I strutting?"
"Like a prize rooster."
"Well, I feel like strutting," said Charles. "You see, Jacqueline, what you said to me tonight—upstairs. Well, I'm right up again—up for good and all, and not even Lutman can get me down again. Come and look." He beckoned to her and she went to him. "See those scraps of paper, Jacqueline?" he said, pointing to the wastepaper basket.
She nodded.
"Well, that's it—the paper—the one Lutman has been holding over my head to make me do his dirty jobs."
"Charles! He gave it to you?"
"No; I took it—from his wallet—when he was out."
"Out?"
"Doped," exclaimed Charles. "I doped his whiskey—neurococcaine. Got it from one of my less respectable clients and stored it behind Chitty on Contracts. He went down like a log, and then I did a little pilfering and handed him down to Allwright."
"Down?" repeated Jacqueline.
Charles stepped forward and pulled up the trap door.
"Down there," he said. "Have a look. That's the river. It runs under this house. Allright came along in a boat and took him aboard. I went out this evening and fixed it with him. He's a good chap. Allright—not too particular what cargo he carries. Luckily his boat was sailing tonight. Shouldn't you go back to bed? You're shivering. Have some whiskey?"
She shook her head.
"I'm off to bed again, Charles," she said, "but I just want to say I'm glad—terribly glad!"
At the door she glanced back.
"What are you going to do, Charles—more work?"
"Not tonight."
"Sleep?"
"No; I don't think I could sleep."
"What, then?"
"Oh, just strut!" he grinned.
Charles, bearing a cup of steaming tea in his hand, mounted the spiral staircase and hammered noisily on Jacqueline's door.
"Jacqueline!"
"Hello!"
"Are you awake?"
"Yes—now!"
"Are you fit to be seen?"
"No."
"Well, you'll find a dressing gown lying about somewhere. Stick it on and open the door."
A few moments of silence then:
"O. K., Charles. Come in!"
Charles went in, found Jacqueline swathed in a voluminous dressing gown, seated on the edge

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MOST ACCIDENTS which require first aid, as we said yesterday, occur in the home, and even of these by all odds burns are the most frequent. It is not only the housewife who is subject to these, but also children. In fact, scalds of a serious kind are more frequent than burns. The effect on the skin is just the same with a scald or burn.
Over a little of 200 domestic accidents are caused by burns, which is very widely used today, was suggested first by Edward C. Davidson of Detroit in 1925. He found that tannic acid forms a more or less stable compound with the protein constituents of the body fluids and cells. When a dilute solution of tannic acid is applied to a burn surface, it exerts its astringent effect upon the most superficial tissues, coagulating them and thereby preventing further penetration into the deeper structures. The use of tannic acid converts a burn in a short time into what is practically a sterile wound.
Burned patients, under tannic acid, suffer less from toxemia and are almost immediately relieved of pain.
Tannic acid is a brownish powder, readily soluble in water, and often is sprayed on the burn in the form of an atomizer.
As tannic acid is present in tea leaves, this is the reason I say a boiled solution of tea is the best dressing that is available for domestic purposes until the doctor arrives.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Alternate Snaps

Ball and socket snappers hold better if, instead of putting all balls on one side of the opening and sockets on the other, you alternate a ball and a socket on each side of the opening.

Can-Rubber Handles

Small children usually have several toys with pull-strings. Remove the large bead from the end of the string on each toy and replace it with a can rubber. This rubber makes an excellent handle for the youngsters to hold on to, and also makes the toys much safer. There is no longer the danger of them swallowing the beads, should they loosen them from the strings—nor turning their ankles on them when the toys are a nuisance in the middle of the room.

Liberties Allowed

The home decorator may take liberties with the dining room. When this room does not open directly from the living room, original and daring combinations may be used. Because it is a room in which a comparatively short time is spent, an unusual effect is not so likely to become tiresome. When a dining room opens from another room with double doors, it should follow the same style and

Inventor Expects 10-pound Machine Will Develop 500 Horsepower

TINKERING MANY YEARS

Failure Would Not Dismay
Man Who Began at O.S.U.

CLEVELAND, May 20 (UP)—Lester D. Woodford, who as a college sophomore planned a trip to the moon, still is tinkering with rockets, but age has cooled his ambition.

He'd be contented now, he said, if he could stand on the Pacific coast and drop a rocket in Asia, or, if need arose, send a stratosphere-speedster zooming from New York to Paris.

Woodford, a 26-year-old industrial engineer, one year out of college, experiments with rockets as a hobby. He is a member of the American Society of Rocket Engineers, not to be confused with the Cleveland Rocket Society, which announced recently that its model space-ship would be exhibited soon in Paris.

"I've looked over their work," Woodford said briefly. "I wasn't satisfied with it."

Studied at Ohio State

Woodford has been experimenting with rockets for eight years. He began during his sophomore year in engineering at Ohio State University. That was when the idea of a trip to the moon captured his fancy.

What he is interested in now is the commercial and military use of rockets.

He believes he has worked out a formula which will perfect the rocket motor. Rockets (the kind people may ride in some day, not the pyrotechnic kind seen on the Fourth of July) are propelled by the force produced by the explosion of vaporized fuel.

The rocket motor is a small hollow ball, with a hole in one side, from which an exhaust pipe flares. It's the structure of the exhaust pipe, Woodford says, that largely determines the motor's success.

In his motor, explosion of butane within the ball pushes the rocket forward. The exhaust must be so designed that it flares out from the motor in an exact ratio (and there's the secret) to the expansion of the gases released within the motor.

It's that puzzling exhaust pipe ratio that Woodford thinks he's found.

To Test Motor Soon

His motor, he said, will be tested soon. "Within from four to six weeks."

"I'll take it to some isolated spot," he explained, "to prevent accident."

The motor will be strapped down inside a small concrete structure. It will be operated by remote control while it is being tested, so that if, perchance the inventor's calculations are wrong, he'll be left alive to amend them.

Woodford's motor, weighing only 10 pounds, is expected to develop up to 500 horsepower. He said a rocket motor could propel a small stratosphere plane, controlled by radio beams, at the rate of 7,000 miles an hour. Motors would be set in the rear of the plane's wings.

May-December Woes Are Told

MONEY woes in the marital life of Mrs. Susan Tucker, 59, and her erstwhile Cinderella bridegroom, Burton Tucker, 32, whose "May-December" marriage 14 years ago received nation-wide publicity, were aired in New York court by Mrs. Tucker, appearing against her husband on a charge of abandonment. Mrs. Tucker, who also is Tucker's great aunt, testified he left her after her $800,000 fortune had been dissipated during their marriage. She alleged he abandoned her and her three children last year and that she was forced to pawn her jewelry.

He expects success with his motor, but failure would not dismay him.

"For every success I've had 27 failures," he said. "But the rocket motor is perfect in theory, and one day soon the theory is going to be put into practice."

Tax Work Nightmare To Solons

Leaders In Dark As To Proposals Feared Approaching

This is the last of three articles by Charles P. Stewart on the tax situation as seen from Washington.

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Congress is in a tenuous frame of mind, ready to squabble over almost anything, and the big problem yet to be solved is taxation. It is characteristic of the president to make an executive approach a step at a time, and leaders in both houses appear to be in the dark.

They will not even admit that a tax bill will be presented, although they know that one must be brought out. Everybody with a soft lead pencil has taken a shot at the issue. The Brookings institution recently issued a report showing a heavy increase in housing requirements for federal agencies. In 1935 offices and quarters for this purpose in the national capital occupied 12½ million square feet. In 1935 the total had increased to almost 16 million (15,844,957 as against 12,552,138 in 1933). Outside of Washington the increase jumped, over the named period, from 56,239,294 square feet to 102,409,190. Between December 1934, and September, 1936, the civil personnel increased more than 1,000 each month except two. The personnel outside of the capital is 85 percent of the total.

It is beyond credulity to expect a cut in these figures large enough to make a dent in expenditures. The unbalanced budget, which is causing some uneasiness, would most certainly become an unbalanced nation if five or six millions of these folk were handed blue slips on pay day.

Remember the food sale to be held by the Official Board of the M. E. church, on Saturday morning in the Kingston Building and Loan office.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bailey (Pearne Walters) of Ragbit, W. Va., and Mrs. Lulu Bailey of Cinderella W. Va., were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walters at their new home on Woodland avenue.

Mrs. William Hulise near Circleville and Mrs. Ida McCorkle enjoyed Friday with Mrs. Alice Hankins and daughter Betty near Rushville.

Mrs. F. M. Iske and Mrs. Bertha Iske of Lima, O. were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Paul M. Niswander and family from Monday until Wednesday evening.

Miss Carrie Umsted was the guest of Mrs. Sarah Umsted and family in the Boulke Block in Chillicothe on Wednesday.

Mrs. Floyd Hickle, Mr. Lloyd Evans and sons, David, Billy and James visited Mrs. Lloyd Evans and new daughter, at Berger hospital on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yapple and daughter Elizabeth of Chillicothe and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yapple of Meade, visited Mr. and Mrs. Brodless Herbert and family near Delaware on Sunday.

Mrs. Carrie Holderman, Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. J. P. Gardner and Miss Mildred Holderman motored to Huntington, W. Va., on Saturday and passed the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Thurer, who is a niece of Mrs. Gardner.

French Living Costs Up

PARIS (UP)—Cost of living for a French laboring family of a man, wife and two children has risen by 15.2 per cent since devaluation of the franc six months ago. Compared with pre-war, living is nearly 500 per cent dearer. These figures were announced by committee of employers, workmen and civil servants.

We'd like to hear something more about the Boston bookkeeper who has been sent to jail for maintaining three wives. How is it done?

you look at it. Smith leaves one government job, toplugged out in the interest of economy, and appears on the payroll of another the next day, for political reasons. It don't add up to anything but a head ache now for senators and representatives and a backbone for the citizen who had managed to keep afloat during the depression, by his own efforts.

The president's delay in issuing a revised budget message indicates a shift in procedure and congress will have the job of untangling the blacklash caused by the over-run when expectation exceeded fact in the first estimates.

A "HOT POKER"

Already there are sharp divisions in both senate and house. The supreme court enlargement act in the former and the anti-lynching bill in the latter for example.

And now comes a poker, hot at both ends. An increase in taxes is going to blister many congressional fingers and increase in unemployment, to evade the necessity of a tax, would blister a good many more.

LOTTERY?

A national lottery has been whispered as a solution, but no one entertains, seriously, that as a possibility yet. Though some recall the important public works accomplished earlier in our history by this means. The Lancaster turnpike, between Philadelphia and Lancaster, which was the first improved highway in the colonies, was financed by a lottery. There were many others in the Quaker state which tided it over rough financial difficulties.

ANOTHER SOURCE?

Yet another suggestion includes radio instruments as a possible source. In England they bear a part of the excise burden and the tax appears to be agreeable, or at least tolerated without too much squealing. It was some years after the automobile became common before it was shot at, by way of a fuel tax, and now see what it pays.

But all these things are taxes, regardless of the names they may be called by. None of them is painless.

The nicest way to prepare spinach for the table is to feed it to the cow and serve in a milk glass.

As an evidence of what happens when a government employee is nudged out of his job take the 900 who are out in the AAA, because the job for which they were hired fulfilling contracts between farmers on crop control and the government, is ended. The influence which got them the places in the first instance is now engaged in finding nooks for them in some other federal setup. A good many will be found and that's just as certain as taxes.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Raoul Walsh's latest directorial effort, "You're in the Army Now," a fast-moving comedy drama starring Wallace Ford and Anna Lee, and released by Gaumont opens Thursday at the Cliftona Theatre, offers movie-goers first rate entertainment and an all around comedy treat. Scripted by Lesser Samuels and Ralph Bettinson, the picture crackles with smart dialogue, amusing situations and a plot which highlights love and adventure in some of the world's gayest outposts.

Briefly, the story concerns the high, wide and handsome adventures of a typical New York wise guy who, after a mad Chinatown brawl, finds himself pinned with a murder charge. Thinking fast, he gets possession of the murdered man's papers and passports, makes a quick getaway and lands in London. Here, as Jimmy Dean, he becomes a private in the British Army, falls in love with a beautiful blonde, gets in and out of scrapes and eventually winds up as a national hero.

AT THE GRAND

Elizabeth Bergner is the featured star in "As You Like It," appearing at the Grand theatre Thursday evening. On Friday, Harold Bell Wright's famous "It Happened Out West" will be screened with Paul Kelly and Judith Allen in the starring roles.

LOVE MISSIVE
LOST IN BATTLE
19 YEARS LATE

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (UP)— Nineteen years ago, just before he went into battle in Belleau Wood, Corp. Joseph Rendinell of the 6th Marines mailed a letter to his sweetheart, Mae Delaney.

Miss Delaney, who has been Mrs.
Rendinell for 18 years, has just received the letter. It had been lost when the censor, called into the line, had stuffed a packet of letters into his bed roll.

The censor, Lieut. Edward A.
Kennedy, was wounded in battle, and the letters were lost. Three years ago they were found in the roll of bedding at Brooklyn Navy Yard and forwarded to Kennedy, who lives in Cloquet, Minn.

Again they were lost. But recently Kennedy found them and sent them back to the writers.

Fort Peck Dam on Missouri River, Costing Uncle Sam $106,000,000, Nearly Ready to Begin Operating

Col. Thomas B. Larkin, chief U. S. army engineer in charge of the building of Fort Peck dam.

FORT PECK, Mont.—Closing down like a faucet on the mighty Missouri river are expected.

The building of the dam has attracted more than 25,000 people to the vicinity where there are some 25 mushroom villages and a city planned and constructed by the government.

Four mile-long diversion tunnels will take care of the flow of the stream while dredges fill the gap in the dam through which the water has been flowing since the start of the public works project in October, 1933.

By fall, when the spillway will be completed, huge gates of the diversion tunnels will close down and the five-year filling-up process of the 185-mile long lake behind the dam will begin.

Following its peak in 1936 when more than 7,000 workers were on the job, employment has been steadily decreasing. Employment will continue to drop sharply from now until 1939 when the dam will be entirely completed.

Forming an almost insignificant dot on the badlands of northeastern Montana, Fort Peck dam is five times larger than any other hydraulic earth-fill dam in the world. Its actual dimensions are two miles long, half mile wide and 242 feet high.

Effects of the dam will be felt as far away as the lower reaches of the Mississippi for it will impound water which ordinarily would run off during the spring floods. A nine-foot channel for navigation, already in operation between St. Louis and Kansas City, will be extended to Sioux City, Ia.

The lake to be formed by the dam will be large enough with its 1,600 miles of shore line to accommodate huge squadrons of boats and airplanes.

Some have suggested that Fort Peck dam, originally an Indian trading post, will become one of the country's chief defense bases.

As a gesture in memory of the old river steamboat days, a boat race from St. Louis to Fort Benton will be run off just before the closing in of Fort Peck dam. En-

Fifteen million carloads of materials will have passed by this depot by the time
Fort Peck dam is finished.

One of the farms which will be submerged when Fort Peck dam fills.

PUBLIC WARNED
'DRY ICE' CAN BE DANGEROUS

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Following the ice wagon may not be dangerous to children, but their handling of "dry ice" presents a new physical hazard.

"Don't play with 'dry ice,'" the Orleans Parish Medical Society warned. And the message was for adults as well as children, for indiscriminate handling of the material may seriously attack and destroy tissues.

"Children all over the United States have made it a practice to follow the ice wagon to get a small amount of ice to eat," the society said.

"With advent of 'dry ice' used by vendors of many types of frozen dainties sold on the streets, children now beg for the surplus 'ice' which vendors usually throw away as their stock becomes low.

"It seems that this new refrigerant fascinates the youngsters.
They have found out that if they hold a small amount of it in their mouths and breathe through their noses, a condensation of the cold resembles breath on a frosty morning.

"On interviewing some of our local adolescents, we learn that this is called 'blowing off steam.'

Because "dry ice" is a tissue destroyer, it is now used in removing blemishes, the doctors pointed out. Placing it in the mouth has resulted in many cases of ulcers and other injury. The society cited a case from New York in which a child had to be treated for two weeks in a hospital from swallowing a piece the size of a grape.

GRAVESEND, England (UP)—
This is a story all about graves, even including the name of the city where the incidents took place.

Joseph Waghorn, a Gravesend Corporation grave digger, argued with his foreman over how deep a grave should be dug. Unable to convince the foreman about the proper depth, Waghorn gave an hour's notice.

An hour later he returned to the cemetery with a large hammer and engaged in a smashing party. He broke three moving machines 12 gravestone blocks and a large number of flower pots.

As he was leaving the graveyard he hurled a flower pot at the foreman, William Lear, who successfully dodged.

Waghorn's damage was placed at $90 and he was sentenced to a month in prison. Charges of assaulting Lear were dismissed.

Questions and Answers

What is meant by Espagnole Sauce? What is its use, and how is it made?

Espagnole Sauce is a rich brown sauce, one of the most important basic sauces, and is sometimes called "veloute" or "velvety" sauce. This is used as a gravy or thick sauce, being made with these ingredients:

- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 1 C. brown stock
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Melt butter, brown the flour in the butter, add stock slowly. Boil for 3 minutes and strain. Add fla-vorings of onion, minced vegetables, bay leaf, Worcestershire sauce or parsley to suit the purpose of the sauce. Casserole meat dishes, roasts, and other meat dishes are improved in flavor by the addition of the sauce as an accompaniment.

Can you tell me how many eggs will be needed to bread veal for serving one hundred and fifty people?

If you allow one-quarter pound veal for each serving, you will need approximately forty pounds of meat to serve 150 people. Sixteen eggs will be needed for dipping the veal and 2 cups of milk to thin the egg mixture. Four quarts of bread crumbs, and one cup of salt completes the quantities required to serve this simple dish to 150 people.

Please give me a recipe for Hot Fudge Sauce for cake and ice cream.

With spring increasing our interest in ice cream, we offer this sauce to "top up" the flavors commonly served.

- Hot Fudge Sauce
- 1 1/2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
 - 1 C. milk
 - 2 Tbsp. light corn syrup
 - 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Bring to a boil and cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly.
Add sugar, dash of salt, and syrup, and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of sauce forms a jelly mass in cold water (220 degrees).
Add vanilla. Serve hot on ice cream or other desserts, or serve cold. Makes 1 1/3 C. sauce.

These terms on menus cause confusion. Can you tell me what they mean? "Duchessa potatoes," "petite-fours," "potage," "piquant" and others, but as a start I would appreciate knowing these.

Duchessa potatoes are mashed potatoes to which egg yolks and butter have been added. The potatoes are usually put through a pastry tube to give a decorative touch.

Petite-fours—small cakes usually laborately frosted.

Potage—the French word for soup.

Piquant—usually refers to a sauce containing vinegar or lemon juice.

ever he hears the majority of the people are for—that is his tune.

HAWAII AND U. S.
TRADE TEACHERS

HONOLULU (UP)—Sixteen
Island school teachers this year are taking part in a "teacher exchange" program with co-operation of mainland schools, one of the most unusual developments in recent instructor training.

Oren E. Long, superintendent of public instruction in the territory, recently reported success of the new undertaking to Joseph E. Poindexter, territorial governor.

"It is the policy of our school system in Hawaii to not only permit but to encourage our teachers to exchange positions with instructors in mainland America," Long said. "Under this plan new ideas are absorbed, new enthusiasm is obtained and a better understanding of Hawaii is given to school systems throughout the nation."

"These exchanges are arranged between administrations and not by the teachers themselves. After the arrangements are made, the teacher is given the privilege of accepting or refusing an exchange. Much attention is given to the selection of Hawaii's representatives and the plan has met with splendid approval by other systems employing our teachers.

"Mainland teachers brought here receive the same salary as Island teachers and the reverse is true for our exchange. No exchange position carries for more than one year."

During the current school year Island teachers are employed in Minneapolis, Omaha, Phoenix,
Oakland, Little Falls, N. J., Stockton, Cal.; Santa Ana, Cal.;
Vancouver, B. C.; Waynesboro, Pa.; Moline, Ill.; Dearborn, Mich.;
Portland, Ore.; Bellingham,

ENCH CONTEST FOR DOGS TO HAVE PLACE IN PUMPKIN SHOW IN OCTOBER

BIRD CLUB AIRS PLAN FOR MAJOR EVENT OF FALL

Entrance Fee For Higher Class Animals To Be Suggested at $1

Downtown Building Sought For Competition

Byron Eby, president of the Pickaway County Bird Dog club, has completed plans for a dog show at the Pumpkin Show. He will submit his proposition to the show society at its next meeting.

Directors of the society recently decided to add a dog show to the celebration and referred arrangements to the club.

Mr. Eby said the tentative plans were to charge a $1 entrance fee for registered dogs or dogs eligible to register. No entrance fee would be charged for ordinary dogs. He will suggest also that a 10-cent admission price be charged, the funds to be used by the society for expenses.

A regular bench show will be held with judges to be brought here from other cities. Prizes will be awarded, and funds obtained by the club will be used for purchasing pheasants for field trials, or game.

The club hopes to obtain a downtown building for the show so the barking will not disturb residents. In the event a building is not obtained, the show will be held in a tent in the downtown district.

GOLFERS BEATEN IN LEAGUE MEET WITH TWO FOES

The Tiger quartet hit the ball more than 400 times. Grandview won the meet with a 347 total, while Bexley was second.

Circleville was the only other competitor. Next Monday, the Red and Black will meet Grandview on the Pickaway Country Club course.

Ford Frick Threatens Giant-Cardinal Teams

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—Fines and suspensions for the players who engaged in the Giant-Cardinal ninth inning riot at Sportsman's park, St. Louis—the stormiest baseball brawl in years—were scheduled for today by Ford Frick, National league president.

"I won't take any action until I receive the complete reports of the umpires who handled the game," said Frick. "They have been air-mailed to me and I expect them by noon. I talked to Umpires Barr and Stark and Managers Frisch and Terry on the long distance phone last night and it's hard to find out just exactly what happened because it came so suddenly and so many players were involved."

Out of the battle, in which almost every player of both teams was swinging, these facts stood out:

1) Carl Hubbell won his 22nd straight game and was the coolest man in the park during the strife. He stayed out of the fighting and tended strictly to his pitching chores.

2) Dizzy Dean was soundly out-pitched by Hubbell and lost control of himself when a balk was called on him.

3) Dean obviously was throwing his "high, hard one" at the Giants' heads.

4) The usually docile Giants proved as tough as the Gas house gang, giving punch for punch and carrying off a moral victory by outgunning the Cards.

The Giants won the ball game, 4-1, before 22,694 persons. Hubbell breezed on to his sixth straight triumph this season, and his 22nd since his last defeat July 13, 1935. Hubbell permitted only six hits, walked none and fanned seven. Joe Medwick's homer in the second was the only run scored off him. Dean was nicked for seven hits, walked two, hit another and fanned only five.

The battling was the result of a balk decision called by Umpire George Barr on Dean in the fifth when the Cards led, 1-0. Whitehead singled and went to second on a sacrifice. Bartell flied to left but Barr ruled that Dean failed to come to the necessary stop in his pitching motion after looking at the runner on second. Bartell came back and batted again. This time he lined to Pepper Martin, who dropped the ball, Whitehead scoring the tying run.

Dean tossed his glove in the air when the umpire called the balk. He gave every indication of wanting to quit the game. Then with the scored tied, 1-1, singles by Chiozza and Joe Moore scored two more runs. The Giants added another in the ninth after the rioting stopped.

After the fifth inning Dean started throwing at the Giants' heads. They were going up and down like duck pins. Finally Rippe bunted down the first base line, but Second Baseman Brown fielded the ball, Mize covering first. Dean got in the play anyway, and barely missed a head-on collision with Rippe. In a second Dean and Rippe were swinging.

OHIO U. AHEAD
COLUMBUS, May 20.—(UP)—Ohio University today had the first undisputed Buckeye conference baseball crown in the history of the Athens school. Coach Don Peden's great team won its ninth straight league encounter at Huntington, W. Va. when it defeated Marshall by a 9 to 0 count.

MILLER'S FARM READY TO TAKE OHIO PHEASANTS

Tim Miller's farm is ready for pheasants.

A fence, six feet high, enclosing about an acre and a half of land has been erected and 15 hovers have been constructed.

Miller, who lives just west of South Bloomfield, donated the land to the state and the Pickaway Farmer's and Sportsman's association for pheasant raising. The club voted to reimburse him for the wheat he has planted on the plot and for his work in caring for the birds.

Fred Harlowe, district conservation commissioner, said the first hatch of pheasants at a Newark hatchery would be out June 8. The first setting included 4,700 eggs.

Two weeks after the pheasant chicks are hatched about 800 of them will be sent to Miller's farm.

"The Pickaway county men are the first in my district to have everything ready for pheasant chicks," Mr. Harlowe said, "and if everything goes according to schedule you are going to get plenty of birds."

Failure To Win Relays Or Field Events Cost Red and Black

OWENS FIRST IN TRIO

Locals Go To Lancaster For Dual Contest

Bexley high school took all the relays and field events, Wednesday, to defeat Circleville high school's harriers in a 75½ to 56½ meet. The Bexley field was the scene of the engagement.

Absence of Don Henry hurt the Tiger chances, because Henry's marks in two or three of the field events are better than those which won for Bexley.

Bob Owens was the star of the Tiger crew with first places in 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes.

The Red and Black was in Lancaster Thursday afternoon for another dual meet.

Summary:
120-yard high hurdles: Won by Startzman, B, 19 seconds; Brown, C; Hogan, B.

220-yard high hurdles: Won by Hogan, B; Brown, C; Price, C, and Peltzinger, B, tied for third.

880-yard run: Won by K. Smith, C, 2 minutes 19 seconds; Johnson, C; Yaelkie, B.

YELLOWBUD '10' WINS SOFTBALL CONTEST 9 TO 4

CINCINNATI BACK IN CELLAR AFTER 3 TO 1 DECISION

CINCINNATI, May 20.—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds, who envisioned a steady climb toward a first division berth after they climbed out of the National league cellar last Saturday, had put aside those ideas today and set about to devise methods of again escaping from last place in the National league standing.

Cincinnati fell back into the cellar last night when it dropped a 3 to 1 decision to the Boston Bees. The contest was the first of the season played under the lights and attracted 19,565 fans.

Johnny Vander Meer, the strike-out king of the minors a season ago, made the first start of his major career for Cincinnati and hurled creditable enough ball to win most contests.

About This And That In Many Sports

High School Grid Schedule Complete

Circleville high school's football team will play a nine-game schedule next fall with five frays at home and three, two of them at night, on the road. — E. E. Reger, faculty manager, disclosed the complete schedule Thursday after closing two-year contracts with Urbana, the first game to be played there Nov. 19, the last day on the Red and Black schedule. — The Champaign counties will come to Circleville the following fall. — Groveport will open the 1937 grid season by invading the high school field on Sept. 17. — A week later Worthington comes here, and the following Friday the Tigers trek up to Granville to meet Bob McConnell's usually speedy crew. — Sunbury is the Circleville guest Oct. 8, and the 15th finds the Red and Black going to Mt. Vernon, one of the major games on the schedule, for a nocturnal affair. — On Oct. 23, the highlight of the season is booked, Greenfield, on the local green-sward. — Nov. 5 finds the Tigers playing at night in Logan and then comes Grove City to Circleville, the final contest before the Urbana joust. — Not a bad schedule when it was feared the schedule could not be filled without some Central Buckeye league opposition.

Circleville fans and the boys with whom he works are pleased that Coach Jack Landrum has been employed for another year. — Landrum's influence over the youths with whom he has worked has been splendid, he has gained discipline and at the same time held the respect of the athletes. — The football season last fall was pretty good, despite losses to several Central Buckeye opponents.

The basketball season was the worst in recent years, for various reasons, but Spring sports have been successful, despite the fact that the baseball team gave up after only a few defeats.

Next year with the school out of any league, taking games as they come, it is almost certain improvement will be shown. — Anyway all Circleville is pulling for Jack and his boys. — What's happened to the finance committee to get the Stooze club's drive for football field lights under way?

Something must be done NOW and not in October if night games are going to be provided. — The board of education should get behind the Stooze club's splendid effort in every way it possibly can to assure the success of the program. — Lights on the football field will mean revenue increased from 100 to 200 percent, and maybe more than that. — However, nothing can be done if persons placed in responsible positions on committees do not get to work. . . .

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ONE-NO TRUMP HARDEST

A FINE PLAYER does not require high contracts in order to show his skill. Some of the prettiest work is done on the low ones, especially those of 1-No Trump, which ordinarily is the hardest contract of any kind to make, when it happens to be the correct contract.

Here West had bid a spade, North doubled, East passed and J. Lester Van Name, star of the New York Intercollegiate league, bid 1-No Trump in the South, which everybody passed.

The spade 6, covered by the J, was won by the Q. Reading now that, if West held a suit headed by A-K-10-9, he would have led an honor, he offered a small spade, sure that East had an honor which would win and no more of the suit, thus being obliged to lead up to the dummy. Had West covered with any of his high ones, everything would have been all right for him, but he played the 8 and East won with the 9. In a choice of evils, East led his club J to the Q. Reckoning that East would not have done this without four headed by the J-10, this would place West with nothing left but a singleton K. So Mr. Van Name played the club Ace, and sure enough the K fell. He returned the small club toward his 9-7, hoping East would duck, which he did, and then threw East back in again with the last club.

Confronted with leading up to the red suits on the table, East picked a low heart to the Q. A diamond was led, which East passed up, and the Q won. This made six tricks in, and a heart to the A provided the seventh which was needed to make the 1-No Trump on a deal in which the opponents had the majority of the strength.

COUNCIL STUDIES RESTROOMS TO COST $4,025; COUNTY TO SHARE EXPENSE

BARNES REPORTS DATA PREPARED FOR NEEDED JOB

Committee To Study Ways to Finance Project, Urged By Board of Health

COURTHOUSE LOCATION

Several Officials Ready To Approve Bond Issue

Installation of public restrooms in the courthouse will cost approximately $4,025, T. M. Barnes, chairman of council's service committee, reported Wednesday night.

Mr. Barnes said preliminary plans for the restrooms were prepared for the county commissioners by an engineer. Rough estimates were obtained.

The commissioners have agreed to pay one-half of the expense involved. They ask the city to pay the balance. Mr. Barnes' report was referred to a committee of council as a whole to study means of financing the project. Mr. Barnes was named chairman.

In an informal discussion following the council meeting, several members said they were in favor of immediate action on the proposition, and if necessary they would approve a bond issue to take care of the expense.

Council received a letter from the city board of health requesting immediate action be taken on the project. "Cooperation on the part of all concerned will mean that Circleville will have a public restroom," the letter stated. It was referred to the committee.

The restrooms would be located in the front basement of the courthouse immediately back of the front steps. Entrances would be constructed on each side of the steps.

a hotel, where she had registered as "Dr. V. K. Maher." She seemed thoroughly familiar with the case of the Ohio co-ed, who vanished May 4 from Austin hall, a dormitory at Ohio Wesleyan.

Bridgework Different

She posed as Miss Baumgardner, but refused to talk by telephone to Mrs. Ora Hardwick, a sister of the missing student. From Mrs. Hardwick, police learned that Miss Baumgardner had certain bridgework which could not be found in the mouth of the "mystery girl."

St. Louis police reported that they had no record of any missing person named Catherine Gartner. But last night, the girl talked by telephone to a Charles Karl Gartner of Cleveland, who, according to police seemed to recognize her.

The girl told police she had traveled through Cleveland, Buffalo, N. Y., and Albany, N. Y., and had been here a week. She said she had 51 cents left of the $200 she had "borrowed from my sorority."

"I'm a problem child," she said, flicking cigarette ashes on the floor. "Those four years of college work were just too much. I had to escape from myself—I had to get away."

"That was enough for the questioners. They led her away, after showing a photograph of Miss Baumgardner and asking, "is that a picture of yourself?"

"It might be me," she replied.

Miss Baumgardner was a senior at Ohio Wesleyan, and would have graduated next month. She was regarded as a "good student" by school officials. She majored in art, and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. When she

Sheriff Radcliff said all persons questioned told substantially the same story about the affair.

Babb had severely beaten his wife, and she had sought refuge at the Teets home. Babb followed her to the home in his auto, parked it in the front yard with the car's lights burning and started toward the home making the threat he would "kill them all," Sheriff Radcliff said.

Flashlight Carried

Babb was carrying a nickel-plated flashlight, not lighted and those in the home thought it was a gun. Sheriff Radcliff said both Teets and his father told him they warned Babb not to approach the home. When Babb continued toward the house, Teets fired the gun.

Funeral services for Babb will be held in the home Friday at 2 p. m. with Rev. D. H. Householder officiating. Burial will be in Springfield cemetery in charge of C. E. Hill.

contract the company's offer was: first 30 kwh, 6 cents; next 30, 5 cents; next 40, 4 cents, and all over 100 kwh, 3 cents.

Commercial rates offered by the company were: first four-year period, first 50 kwh, 6 cents per kwh; next 50, 5 cents; next 400, 4 cents; next 500, 3 cents; next 1,500, 2½ cents and all over 2,500, 2 cents; next six-year period, first 100 kwh, 5 cents; next 400, 4 cents; next 500, 3 cents, next 1,500, 2½ cents, and all over 2,500, 2 cents.

Thorough Study Made

When presenting the resolution, Mr. Wallace informed council that the committee he appointed was comprised of representatives of some of the city's oldest business establishments. "We made a thorough study of rates in localities around Circleville, and I think we have made an offer that is fair to the company and the consumers," he stated.

Wallace Crist, a member of the committee, spoke briefly, pointing out that lower rates than those offered Circleville were being enjoyed in Williamsport and Ashville. He said he had been informed that some of the larger consumers of the city were permitted special rates. "I think council should give fair consideration to all users before granting a contract," Crist added.

Nathan Groban, another member of the committee, urged councilmen "not to tie up the future of Circleville under a 10-year contract." Groban said citizens approached concerning rates were not in favor of a contract for more than five years.

Councilman Tull M. Barnes contended the company, the Chamber of Commerce and council were "too far apart" in their prices. He asked why the committee of businessmen had waited so long before taking part in the rate controversy. President Wallace corrected Barnes when he mentioned the committee as a Chamber of Commerce delegation. "These men represent the citizens of Circleville," he said, "and some of them are not Chamber of Commerce members."

Councilman Marion said he would call a meeting of the three groups as soon as possible. He declared the delay in settling the rate question was costing the people of Circleville about $900 a month.

"We will be ready for a meeting tomorrow morning if council and the company officials are ready," Wallace said.

"I believe we are on the right track in the rate question now," Council President John Goeller said.

Ed Mason and Fred Brunner, other members of the committee, were present, but did not speak.

HARRY HILL GIVEN $250 IN HIS SUIT FOR $438

Harry Hill, Circleville implement dealer, was awarded $250 by a common pleas court jury Wednesday night in his suit against Alex Mace, Ross county, for $438.98 on an account for repairs, improvements on a tractor, and storage charges.

The case was presented to the jury about 4:30 p. m. The verdict was announced about 8 p. m. The jurors took no time out for supper, informing the judge they preferred to continue their deliberations. Eleven jurors signed the verdict. William Spangler, Salt-creek township, foreman, did not sign it.

"Wings of the Morning" has a touch of something or other that distinguishes it from most amateur productions and makes it seem professional.

The acting ran smoothly from start to finish and every role, whether a major one or a bit part, was capably enacted. Several of the actors were outstanding. Foremost among these was Joe Smalley in his role of Tonio Di Silvestri, the political-minded Italian fruit vendor, Joe's mastery of an Italian dialect and his splendid acting supplied much of the play in just the right way. John Rankin, as Master Geoffery, and Gayle Wolfe, as Eben Forthright, deserve separate bouquets for their enactments of difficult character parts. And while speaking of character parts, one can't overlook the splendid portrayal of the old lady from the home, Mrs. Ellis. Jessie Dresbach took the part, and "took it to town." Her acting was flawless throughout the play.

Credit is due also to Jack Brown and Richard Weldon for the respective roles of Adrian Powell, the poet, and Dr. David Banning,

the surgeon. Ruby Chaffin and Eleanor Dreisbach turned in fine performances in the roles of Benedetta, the spirited daughter of Tonio, and Joyce Calvert, the dress designer. In fact, everyone was good, for to turn out a good play everyone must be.

The supporting roles of Loeb, Joyce's maid, played by Kathleen Greene, Nana Cooper as Tonio's wife, Effie, the nurse at the old ladies home, taken by Eleanor Pierce, Charlotte Cook as Trudy, the granddaughter of Mrs. Ellis, and Don Henry as Stanley Gordon, the aviator servant of Master Geoffery, were all good. Outstanding among these was Wahnita Barnhart's role of Ellen, Master Geoffery's sister. Each and every one added to the complete success of the show.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein.

Sen. Nye in Confab

The visit of Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R., N. D., to the White House yesterday was believed by foes of the bill to be part of such a campaign, although Nye steadfastly refused to discuss his talk with the president.

"If they think that such a move will win them any senate votes they're mistaken," said Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., opponent of the court bill.

Congressional leaders quit talking about the court fight and turned attention to a legislative program involving minimum wages and maximum hours, development of national resources and possible reorganization of the executive branch.

Lindbergh likes it better when he is not noticed at all. On his arrival here 10 years ago, after his Paris flight, he was asked whether he was not getting tired of all the honors done him. He said frankly that he was not, that he was having the time of his life. But it did not take a great deal of the adulation with which he was hailed on his return to the United States to tire him, and now dog Thor is his notice to unauthorized visitors that they are not wanted. On such days as today he even has his telephone disconnected.
